BRANDEIS'S WARNING TO THE GREAT TRUSTS.

In the midst of our indignation over the unpardonable crimes of trade union leaders, disclosed at Los Angeles, should not our statesmen and thinkers seek to ascertain the underlying cause of this wide-spread, deliberate outburst of crimes of violence?

What was it that led men like the McNamaras to really believe that the only recourse they had for improving the condition of the wage-earners was to use dynamite against property and life? Certainly it was not individual depravity.

Was it not because they and men like them believed that the wage-earner, acting singly, or collectively, is not strong enough to secure substantial justice?

Is there not a causal connection between the development of these indomitable trusts and the horrible crimes now under investigation?

Are not these huge trusts large contributing causes to these crimes—unintelligent expressions of social unrest? Is it not irony to speak of the equality of opportunity, in a country cursed with their bigness?—Louis D. Brandeis favoring La Follette anti-trust bill before Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce.

NEW WITNESS FOR AN ALIBI IN RICHESON CASE

A new and important witness has been found by the lawyers who are to defend the Rev. Clarence V. T. Richeson. It is declared to-day by a man who is working in the interest of the clergyman, who is accused of murdering Avis Linnell.

This witness will testify to the movements of Richeson previous to the tragedy and the testimony will be offered to show that the clergyman did not meet Avis Linnell on the day she died from cyanide of potassium, which the police claim she took believing it was medicine.

It appeared to-day that the Richeson lawyers have about completed their defence and that they will concentrate their efforts to show that Richeson had no opportunity to give Avis Linnell the poison that killed her.

Richeson's attorneys went to the courthouse to-day to hold a conference with District Attorney Pelletier, the nature of which they declined to divulge. They also were to confer with Judge Sanderson, who will try the case, which begins January 15. The Richeson attorneys are John L. Lee, William A. Morse, Philip R. Dunbar and Beverly R. Harrison.

Demand State's Evidence.

Counsel for the accused minister, it was said in legal circles, were to demand of the county prosecutor to-day the right to examine all the exhibits and other evidence in the possession of the State, and it was certain that there would be a spirited argument between the lawyers over this question.

The defence also wants a full list of all the witnesses who have testified before the Grand Jury and those who will be called by the prosecution in the attempt to convict Richeson of murdering the young choir singer from Hyannis.

This demand is based on the following Massachusetts law:

"A prisoner who is indicted for a crime which is punishable with death or imprisonment for life, upon demand before his arraignment upon the trial, shall have a list of the jurors who have been returned and process to summon witnesses who are necessary to his defence at the expense of the Commonwealth."

Richeson to Testify.

Richeson's attorneys are noncommittal, but it is considered probable that they will put the clergyman on the stand to deny in person that he gave the girl he had once promised to marry the poison that ended her life.

The trial will be started on January 15. The lawyers for the defence have declared that they will ask no delay. There is certain to be a protracted fight over the selection of the jury. The venire of 100 talesmen, which may be drawn the coming week, may be exhausted before the twelve men are seated.

Backed by Four Lawyers.

There have been numerous instances when venires have been exhausted before a trial panel has been completed, owing to extreme caution in cases where public sentiment is high and because of numerous challenges.

Exclusive of rejections by the Court, because of manifestness due to bias, opinion, opposition to the death penalty and other causes, each side has a right to twenty peremptory challenges, which would diminish a venire in the number of forty-four from this process of reduction alone. It can be predicted with safety that extreme care will be manifested by both State and defence in the choice of a jury for the accused minister.

FIRE REKINDLES AND LOSS IS $100,000

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 14.—Fire destroyed the plant of the New York Adamant Plaster Company at East Newark early to-day, with a loss of $100,000. Night Watchman Robbins discovered a blaze in a pile of rubbish, and thinking he had extinguished it, went away. The fire rekindled, and within two hours the plant was in ruins.

BISHOP PRAISES PASSPORT FIGHT

Bishop Joseph G. Anderson of Boston has joined with the members of the Massachusetts Passport League in denouncing the methods of the Russian government in refusing full privileges of American citizenship to the Jews.

A letter has been received by the league members from Bishop Anderson in which he lauds the move they are making. His letter will be read at the mass meeting which will be attended by thousands in Faneuil Hall on Sunday night. Here is Bishop Anderson's letter:

Bishop Anderson's Letter.

Chancellor's Office,
No. 75 Union Park Street,
Boston, Mass.

Mr. Isaac Heller, President Massachusetts Passport League, Boston, Mass.

Dear Sir—I received your invitation to attend the mass meeting which is to be held under the auspices of the Massachusetts Passport League Sunday evening at Faneuil Hall.

While heartily in sympathy with this movement, I regret very much that I will be unable to attend, owing to other engagements; but I wish to unite my protest with yours that evening against the attitude of Russia in discriminating against a certain class of American citizens in refusing to honor or recognize the passport issued by this country to her citizens.

We all glory in the title of an American citizen, just as the Roman, who, in his day, proudly declared "Civis Romanus sum" and felt secure that this dignity would ensure his protection in any part of the world. We have always believed as American citizens that this country is ready, likewise, at all times, to protect and defend her citizens in any place on this earth. It is therefore unjustifiable to learn that this is not true, and that in Russia some of our citizens are refused admission into

REVEAL PLOT TO KILL GEORGE

DELHI, Dec. 14.—Discovery that several secret arrests had been made during the last forty-eight hours led to reports here to-day that a plot to assassinate King George had been revealed. Among the prisoners are said to be several Bengalese who have been attempting to foment a revolution against Great Britain.

The authorities refuse to discuss the arrests and the prisoners are held incommunicado.

Ever since King George arrived here he has been guarded night and day.

FRED LAKE WILL MANAGE GRAYS

By W. S. FARNSWORTH.

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—Hugh Jennings, Frank J. Navin and William Yawkey, the big works of the Detroit Tigers, will purchase the Providence club of the Eastern League within a few days and Fred Lake, the former Red Sox manager, will manage the team. The price which is to be paid for the club is said to be $65,000.

President Navin admits that Yawkey-Jennings and himself are after the Grays and he says that he expects the papers to be signed within a few days.

It was at first planned to have Patsy Donovan lead the team but when Donovan stated that he preferred to remain with the Red Sox as scout the trio decided upon Fred Lake to become manager.

With Lake managing the team and with such baseball heads as Jennings, Lavin and Yawkey owning the team, Providence should have one of the best teams in the league next season.

If the Detroit men secure the management no doubt many of the Detroit players signed up for next season will be farmed out to Providence and will get a seasoning before being taken back to Detroit or released.

It is known that Jennings has tried several times to get Fred Lake to manage the Detroit team, but Lake has always refused.

DOUBT REPORT OF SHUSTER EXPULSION

LONDON, Dec. 14.—A report from St. Petersburg that the Persian government had yielded to Russia and had decided to dismiss W. Morgan Shuster, the American treasurer-general, could not be confirmed in official circles here to-day and its authenticity was doubted. The report, which originally came from the semi-official Russian newspaper, Novoe Vremya, stated that the Persian government, after consultation with the British Minister to Persia, had consented to expel Shuster and indemnify Russia with concessions, there being no money in the Persian treasury.

HERE'S A POKER RAID PROBLEM

Watertown police are searching to-day for a human discard.

It was this way. Patrolmen Brown, Burke, Gleason, Andrews and Glidden made a raid in the early morning at a house on Galen street. On approaching the place they peeped in the windows and counted seven young men. They also say they noted gambling devices, such as playing cards, money and similar "props."

After the raid the police divided the prisoners four: John Gaulnz, James Smith, Joseph Williams and John Allen were charged with gambling.

Frank H. Ross and George Hull were charged with being present where gambling was in progress.

"Let's see, four and two are six," said the patrolmen, "where is the other man?"

The seventh man is missing. The police are sure that seven were present when they looked through the windows. But, somewhere in the shuffle, the seventh man eliminated or discarded himself, as they say in poker talk.

WRECKED BOSTON SHIP TOTAL LOSS

HALIFAX, N. S., Dec. 14.—The American four-masted schooner Mosswood, Captain Ivy McDonald, from Rangiero for Boston, which struck on Pollock Point at the western end of the Lunenberg coast, is believed to-day to be a total loss. The steamer Samson went to the wreck, but the schooner probably cannot be pulled off. The crew was saved, and three of them who got away in a dory brought the news to Broad Cove.

¶ Even at the merry gladsome Christmas time a pirate is no gent. Take the case of the Treasure Ship and Old John. It wouldn't be fair to even hint at the trust which Artist Dirks has in store for the readers of the Sunday AMERICAN, but those little angel children, those model boys, those tender darlings, the Katzenjammers, are once more smeared all over with glory.

BRANDEIS URGES FIRMER CONTROL OF GREAT TRUSTS

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—Making the direct charge that the methods of gigantic monopolies are causing a spread of dangerous unrest throughout the United States, Attorney Louis D. Brandeis to-day appeared before the Senate Committee on Interstate Commerce and spoke in favor of the La Follette bill, which is designed to curb the growth of trusts.

Mr. Brandeis explained that it is not the object of those supporting the La Follette bill to kill the Sherman anti-trust act, but to add to it in order to make it more effective. The most menacing trust, said Mr. Brandeis, is the Wall Street Money Trust, whose grip is ever tightening upon the business of America. He charged that conditions in trust-owned mills and factories were not nearly as good as in those of the independents.

POINTS TO M'NAMARA CASE AS A LESSON.

Mr. Brandeis took issue with President Taft on the question of regulating trusts through a commission. The speaker said that a committee might prevent excessive profits, but could not secure low prices necessary to general competition.

In support of his contention that social unrest is growing in consequence of trust methods, the attorney pointed to the labor war in Los Angeles and the blowing up of the Los Angeles Times building with a loss of twenty-one lives. These he reverted to the Homestead strike in Pennsylvania, when men were shot down in actual battles during the long, bloody struggle.

Mr. Brandeis considered the trust question from all angles. He said that the Sherman anti-trust bill in force it would be impossible to form any more trusts in the United States, but its arguments against monopolies was that the quality of the production was lowered while the cost of production was increased. He said that some of the steel trusts had attained control of the rail-making business in the United States to-day and increased at an alarming rate due to defective rails. He then charged that the cost of production had increased to such an extent as to make it impossible for this country to compete in the open markets of the world.

Reviewing the history of the great corporations in this country to show the necessity of more thorough regulation, the speaker pointed out that monopoly is in many cases a destroyer of industrial efficiency. To illustrate this he dealt at length with the Steel Trust and other big corporations, quoting the words of an English writer as follows:

"The United States Steel Trust was organized the cost of producing pig iron had been raised from $4.50 per ton, and American costs all along the line, from mining ore to rolling rails, plates and structural materials, were at a level which defied British competition."

"At that time United States costs were low enough, but the furnaces and mills were not numerous enough to enable that country to indulge in a net export trade. Now that America has any amount of furnaces and mills in excess of home demands she can afford to do nearly the whole of the world's export trade—the finds there including costs as far above those of her British and German rivals that she could obtain less than a very small amount of export business, and so, perforce, her costly plants must stand unemployed."

Continuing his argument Mr. Brandeis said:

The United Shoe Machinery Trust.

A different kind of demonstration of efficiency, consequent upon monopoly, is illustrated by another corporation conspicuous for the ability of its managers. The Shoe Machinery Trust, the result of combining directly and indirectly more than a hundred different concerns, acquired substantially a monopoly of all the essential machinery used in bottoming boots and shoes. Its energetic managers were conscious of the constant need

COL. ROOSEVELT LEAVES BOSTON

Theodore Roosevelt left Boston for New York at 10 o'clock to-day and at his departure said he had had a "jolly" time here. He went to the South Station direct from the home of James Ford Rhodes, the historian, whose guest he has been in this city. A crowd of about 300 gave him a parting cheer. He did not respond to shouts for him to leave his parlor car car for the platform and make a speech.

"You don't seem to be popular here to-day as you were in State street yesterday," a newspaper man said.

"That was great, wasn't it?" replied the Colonel.

"How did you enjoy your visit to Boston?"

"Fine!" said the Colonel.

"Are you jolly?"

"Oh, yes! Jolly!" said Mr. Roosevelt. "Would you accept the Presidential nomination for another term?" was a reporter asked.

"I cannot discuss politics. There's no use asking me, boys," he replied.

"Won't you say something about Lawrence?"

"Not a thing about politics."

"When will you come to Boston again?"

"I don't know just now. Mr. Roosevelt replied, "but I shall be back before long. I intend to attend another meeting of the Harvard overseers.

"How did you like your reception in Boston?"

"I don't like to have the smoke such a fuss over me. The newspapers raise up every little thing. I do not like it."

PROBE THEFTS AT JORDAN HALL

The management of the New England Conservatory of Music is investigating thefts of money from the dressing rooms of Jordan Hall, the auditorium in the Conservatory building, where concerts, recitals and society entertainments are given.

A former employe of the Conservatory is suspected. A warrant is to be asked by the management.

The thefts took place on last Saturday night, while pupils of the Conservatory were giving a musical program on the stage of Jordan Hall. Someone went through their coats in the dressing room. The amounts of cash reported stolen are: M. Bartlett $7, Robert Barkley $6, J. Collins $2 and Paul Hackett $1.

GRITTY 'NEWSIE' AGAIN ON JOB

With his head and one arm swathed in bandages, twelve-year-old Leo Sullivan, "the grittiest boy in Boston," was at his stand at Upham's Corner, after school today, selling his AMERICANS as usual, because, as he said, he "just had to." Though the physicians at the City Hospital advised him when he left for home last night, against their wishes, to "rest up" for at least a week.

Leo is a newsboy. Every afternoon, when he is dismissed from school, he sells Boston AMERICANS at his "corner" to help support his widowed mother. And Leo does a thriving business, his earnings forming a good portion of the family income.

Yesterday about six o'clock Leo was slipping from a car when he was run over by a wagon driven by Walter M. Fail of No. 578 River street, Mattapan. Struck by the horse's hoofs his scalp was badly lacerated, and he received contusions of the arm and shoulder.

Patrolman Frederick Sullivan and George A. Gale of the Dorchester Station picked the lad up tenderly, carried him to a nearby drug store and summoned an ambulance. Though in great pain from his injuries the game little lad said:

"Don't tell mother. She will worry herself sick."

"Do a good job," Leo told Dr. White at the City Hospital, as he was sewing up the boy's wounds, "so I can get out of here quickly and back to our papers."

Although no other was administered, Dr. White said the boy conducted himself with the stoicism of a young Indian.

JOHN STRANGE WINTER DIES FROM INJURIES

LONDON, Dec. 14.—Mrs. Arthur Stannard, the English novelist, better known as John Strange Winter, has been de-plume, died to-day at the age of fifty-five. Her death was the direct result of injuries received six months ago when a subway elevator in which she was riding dropped and was smashed. Mrs. Stannard was the daughter of a clergyman. She was a prolific writer, being the author of more than 100 books. Among her most widely read novels are "Hooties' Baby," "Beautiful Jim" and "A Blameless Woman."

RAILROADS GIVEN RATES ULTIMATUM

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—All railroads were notified to-day by the Interstate Commerce Commission that after January 1, 1912, it would deny all applications for relief from the provisions of the long and short haul clause of the statute except as filed prior to February 17, 1911, and which explained that intermediate points not included in the commodity rates between certain points were excluded because they are not consuming points.

CONFERENCE ON RICHESON CASE

It has been hinted that the judge might be asked to-day to appoint an attorney for Richeson; but Moses G. Edmands, father of Miss Violet Edmands, the minister's fiancee, is still backing his defence with his fortune, as this theory is dispelled.

Further than this, the fact that four lawyers are already engaged on the case makes any such procedure improbable. Two of the attorneys, Lee and Harrison, came from Virginia, and Lee is the most celebrated pleader in criminal cases in the accused man's native State.

The statute give counsel for Richeson authority to demand the full list of witnesses and jurors so that counsel may investigate their standing. Under the law the attorneys can learn who might be of value to them even if not important to the government.

It is possible that counsel for the defence may demand a full transcript of the Grand Jury proceedings, but District Attorney Pelletier will draft against this as it is expected to oppose any other move that might impair or threaten the government's case.

In the Crocker will jury battery case, counsel for the defence obtained the unusual privilege of studying the Grand Jury minutes, but when counsel for the Goddergs, charged with safe-blowing, attempted to gain the same right, citing the Crocker case as a precedent, the presiding Justice denied this motion, saying that at a conference of the Superior Court Justices in the lobby it was agreed that the practice was unwise.

The only intimation as of the nature of to-day's conference given out by the participants was the statement that it was "for the purpose of arranging details for the trial."

Among other things, Attorney Lee met Judge Sanderson for the first time.

Lawyers Lee and Harrison for Richeson will leave for Virginia the last of this week to attend to legal matters there and also to spend the Christmas holidays with their families.

RIOT FOLLOWS 'GRIZZLY BEAR'

The Grizzly Bear dance caused a riot in Marillus Hall, Bowdoin street, Dorchester, which resulted in the arrest of six young men, who were arraigned to-day in the Dorchester District Court. They gave their names as Joseph Fitzpatrick, twenty, of Brookline; Edward J. Devlin, twenty; of Tremont street; John Curtin, eighteen, of Ruggles street, Roxbury; Leo J. Kenney, nineteen, of Parker street, Roxbury; F. L. Sylvester, nineteen, of Marcella street, Roxbury, and J. M. O'Brien, nineteen, also of Parker street.

The riot took place during a dance given by the Elcho Club. To the tune of a popular schottische several young couples started the "Grizzly Bear," the dance Mayor Fitzgerald has decreed improper. Patrolman William Noble attempted to stop it. A free-for-all fight followed, and the policeman was used up in the melee. Several young women were trampled upon as they fought to get out of the way.

NEVER SUSPECTED KIDNEY TROUBLE—GAINED FIFTY POUNDS IN WEIGHT

Some time ago I was suffering from what I supposed was rheumatism. I became so bad that I could hardly get on my feet from a sitting position. I ran down in weight from 195 to 145 pounds. I tried different kinds of medicine but received little or no help. I saw Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root highly recommended for kidney trouble but I never had any idea that my kidneys were affected. I bought a small trial bottle or a fifty cent bottle of Swamp-Root and see what the effect would be. I commenced taking it according to directions and in a few days I saw that it was helping me. I used the fifty-cent bottle and then bought three more dollar bottles and they completely cured me. I have gone back to my original weight—195 pounds—and I am a thorough advocate of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root as I believe it to be a remarkable preparation for what it is recommended to do.

Mrs. Schaal, Who Says Girls Now Scorn to Do Housework

Heed Call of Factory In Preference to That of the Kitchen.

By GERTRUDE L. MARVIN.

Reward: $500 to any one solving the servant problem.

Why do girls prefer heavier, harder work in factories and mills, or anywhere else, to doing housework? Almost all the housewives are puzzling over that question. And the trouble is that the situation is getting worse and worse.

Mrs. Ethel Schaal, a clever young woman who has built up a busy little employment agency on Salem street, says that she can furnish plenty of good strong girls for restaurants and hotels and commercial houses, but she cannot get girls for housework.

"They must find out on the boats coming over," she declared, "that girls come here to this office straight from the coats, so green that they don't know how to live in a civilized house, and refuse to do housework.

"You would think they would be glad to have a chance to get into a nice, comfortable home and learn American ways and be trained. But no!

"No housework. They want to go to restaurants or hotels or some place like that, and you should see how smart they are about their jobs. They may still be wearing their peasant costumes, and not know one word of English, but they know just how many hours per day they want to work, and say: 'Will I wash clothes in the glasses and silver?' they will ask me."

Mrs. Schaal was interrupted here.

"I will tell you why it is," she explained, "it was not so in the old days, but now they have passed a law that every immigrant coming into this country has to have some one meeting them to take them off the boat. Just in those few minutes while they are leading them down the street, the ones who have been over here a little while fill the new ones full of notions about what big pay and short hours they can expect, and by the time they get to us, they are an independent lot you please.

Mrs. Schaal and her mother, Mrs. Goldberg, have fitted up two rooms across the street from their home as an employment agency, around the walls rush rocking chairs, and in one corner of the women's room is a big oil-cloth desk, very business like with its ledgers and telephone and other equipment.

Half a dozen nationalities of girls and men are gathered here, most of them young. Some of them pace around restlessly, others sit back in a corner, inert and passive. The room beyond has benches, too, but they are generally deserted, and the young men stand grouped just across the door sill, looking wistfully at all these fair ones thus cruelly segregated.

"Yes, the girls are popular," laughed Mrs. Schaal. "In fact most of them are married by the time they have been in this country a year or so. It used to be more girls than men coming over, but now it's more men than girls, and the girls are in great demand."

The telephone rang, and instantly the low hum of chatter over in the men's corner was hushed—"Sh-sh-sh-sh," they recognized the words as Mrs. Schaal repeated the order into the phone, and

"Me—me!" they begged, stretching out their arms and grinning and laughing at her. Mrs. Schaal looked them over coolly; evidently it was an old story to her.

"Nothing doing, Tek," for something like that "I want send you, you are too lazy. I want a boy who will go up there and scrub wash dishes and be a credit, us.

Also stopped and calmly wrote an address on a slip. "Nice yellow girl, Kirsawthkinplentyrs" she announced.

A quiet boy who had stood back watching her without a word straightened up and came into the room, his face wreathed in smiles. Snatching the slip of paper and thanking the astonished employer, and waving his hand triumphantly to his compatriots left in the room, he went.

Mrs. Schaal laughed.

"They come very eager to work, and get you never can tell. Sometimes they will go away like that and come back the next day to tell me that the man already had a boy, or something, and then I will call up and find out that the boy never even stood there at all. They are a slippery lot and you have to look out for them.

"The boys are much worse than the girls. They are worse about not telling the truth and they are not as faithful and reliable. One has to look out for them all the time. Some of them are very stupid. It makes a difference whether they come from the city or the country. A girl who has lived out on a farm all her life has a lot to learn, all she knows is ploughing and taking care of the animals. Such girls are primitive in their habits."

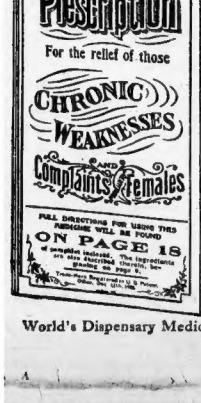
Woman's True Friend

Experimenting with new and untried medicines is foolish, and often dangerous. It would take a medicine more than forty years, to prove itself so universally good as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. During all that time it has been woman's favorite medicine—a restorative tonic, uplifting and invigorating the nervous and discouraged and giving them the final touch of perfect health.

Women use Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription in preference to all other advocated medicines for it contains no alcohol or habit-forming drugs—is not anything like advertised, secret, or patent medicines—does not claim to be able to do impossible things.

THE ONE REMEDY for women devised by a regularly graduated physician of vast experience in woman's ailments, and adapted to her delicate organism.

THE ONE REMEDY good enough that its makers are not afraid to print its every ingredient on its outside wrapper.



You can't afford to allow yourself to be over-persuaded into accepting any —ret nostrum as a substitute for this honest square-deal non-secret medicine. Don't do it. No honest druggist will attempt to cheat you in this way. He who does should be rebuked and avoided. Doctors prescribe Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for their worst cases because they know what it contains and know its ingredients to be of the very best.

It's well now and then to gently cleanse our bowel germs that breed weakness, cause foul breath, loss of appetite, dizziness and headache. Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets keep bowels sweet and clean. Recommended by druggists because of their purity, goodness, and active gentleness.

DYNAMITE PLOT INQUIRY OPENS

INDIANAPOLIS, Dec. 14.—With Attorney-General Wickersham, through Assistant Attorney-General Hart, personally conducting the government's course, the Federal Grand Jury inquiry into the alleged nation-wide dynamite plot began here to-day, when evidence tending to show that others than the McNamara brothers were connected with the conspiracy was turned over to the jury.

The government will exert every effort, it is said, to reach the "higher-ups" in the case, and the probe will be very thorough. It is not expected that the Grand Jury will complete its work before the end of January.

Letters and records of the International Association of Bridge and Structural Iron Workers have been abstracted and checked against statements by Ortie E. McManigal, confessed dynamiter in the employ of John J. McNamara, the convicted secretary-treasurer of the association.

SOCIAL STRIFE INVADES BAZAAR

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—The opening engagement between Mrs. Barney Hemmick and Preston Gibson, the rival belasses of the 400, in their merry little skit, "Who's Who in Society," occured to-day with Mrs. Hemmick, with a sadly crippled company, presented a series of tableaux vivantes at the House of the Good Shepherd bazaar.

While all Mr. Gibson's friends were at the bazaar and incidentally looked on at the tableaux, the deft work of that young leader in stamping the name of Mrs. Hemmick off the social stage was apparent.

When the tableaux were first announced the society players were to have included Mrs. Preston Gibson (although the Gibsons denied Mrs. Gibson had ever half-way consented to appear) Countess D'Arcy, wife of the naval attache of the French embassy, Miss Margaret Draper, Washington's wealthiest debutante, Mrs. Joseph Hopkin, Miss Margaret Barlow and Miss Gladys Hinckley and Katherine Britton.

To-day every one of these smarted of the smart set were conspicuous by their absence from the cast, having learned that the fine dramatic hand of Mr. Gibson is visible in this fact and that Mrs. Hemmick will find many friends of Mr. Gibson reluctant to act under her standard as the season rolls around.

On the other hand Mr. Gibson insists that the fight between Mrs. Hemmick and himself should be rather confined as between Mrs. Hemmick and the Edson Bradleys, whom Mrs. Hemmick promised to support in their theatrical ambitions against Mr. Gibson.

An excellent authority it is learned that the recent truce patched up between Mr. Gibson and the Bradleys included a proviso that Mrs. Hemmick be left out.

At the bazaar Mrs. Edward Douglass White, wife of the chief justice of the United States Supreme Court and friend of Preston Gibson, poured chocolate. She is one of the directors of the House of the Good Shepherd and for that reason, if for no other, could not well decline a part

The Easiest Way To Remove Fuzz

(Boudoir Secrets)

No longer is it necessary for women troubled with hair on face or arms to submit to the torturous electric needle, or experiment with injurious preparations, for it has been found that ordinary powdered delatone, mixed with water to form a paste and spread on the hairy surface, will remove every trace of hair or fuzz.

After leaving the delatone on for two or three minutes, it should be rubbed off and the skin washed. Not only will the hairs vanish, but the skin will be left white, soft and firm. Even though druggists charge a dollar for an original one-ounce package, no one will hesitate an instant to get it, as it is unfailing.

GOVERNOR-ELECT OF ARIZONA THANKS HEARST FOR AID

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 14.—The following telegram was received late, night from Governor-elect George W. P. Hunt of Arizona:

Globe, Ariz., Dec. 13.

Hon. William Randolph Hearst, care Examiner, Los Angeles.

"My Dear Mr. Hearst—The reports of a sweeping victory for Democracy in Arizona received by me last night, and on partial returns, have been confirmed." At this time please accept my earnest thanks for the assistance extended us through the press, in our fight for those progressive principles that you have so long and so ardently advocated.

"The articles written by your representative, Mr. Edward Hainey, have admirably portrayed the circumstances surrounding a situation that was critical in its relation to the future of Arizona, and I feel sure that I speak for the people of this State when I say that the value of those articles to the progressive movement here was intrinsically great, and that sincerity marks our gratitude to you and your far-reaching newspapers.

"Permit me also to thank you for your friendly action in sending the Spanish orator, N. V. Chaves, to Arizona to speak so effectively in behalf of our candidates and our principles. Gratefully yours."

(Signed) George W. P. Hunt.
Governor-elect.

ARREST STIRS NEW BEDFORD

NEW BEDFORD, Dec. 14.—John E. Murphy, the fourth man arrested in the investigation into alleged corruption of voters on state election day, pleaded not guilty before Judge Frank M. Milliken in New Bedford District Court to-day to a charge of buying the vote of Patrick Foy for $3. The case was continued to-morrow.

The District Court room was crowded when Murphy entered with his counsel, Alderman-elect John B. Lowney. There was a brief talk between Lowney and David L. Walsh, the legal end of the prosecution for the State police. When Murphy was arraigned Lowney said he pleaded Milliken.

"Your Honor, the defendant pleads not guilty. I would like the court to grant a continuance to-morrow morning, as I believe the prosecution is agreeable to that."

Mr. Walsh assented and the continuance was granted. The proceedings took three minutes. Murphy was allowed to go on the same bail, $500, which was arranged after the arrest.

It was reported that his bondsman was "Patrick H. Lowney," brother of his counsel. There is no Patrick H. Lowney here. The bondsman is Patrick H. Murphy, bartender and brother of the defendant.

Instead of producing him, Lawyer Lowney asked a conference with the State officers. State Officer Flynn immediately secured a warrant for the arrest of Murphy and several hours later, in the Masonic Building, placed him under arrest. Murphy was taken to police headquarters and quickly bailed.

During the primaries that preceded the State election Murphy was one of the principal workers for Frothingham and Walker and White. He had charge of the Frothingham headquarters in the North End, and after Frothingham's nomination took charge of Republican headquarters under Chairman Parker of the Republican City Committee.

His arrest has startled New Bedford. The arrest of Murphy, whom State Police Officers Flynn and Daly believe to be one of the "high cards" in the open buying of votes in New Bedford, is but one link in the chain expected to land behind prison bars in the end, not only the men higher up in New Bedford's vote buying, but their agents and confederates as well.

Murphy directly is charged with buying the vote of Patrick H. Foy at the last State election for Frothingham and Lucas. The complaint against him charges that he paid Foy $3 for his vote. Foy cast his first vote at the November election. He became twenty-one years of age last August. He has admitted to the state police that he looked forward to receiving his first vote for Governor. Foy, Murphy, he claims, offered him money to vote for Frothingham and Lucs, and he yielded.

Murphy, arraigned to-day, is the right-hand man of David L. Parker, chairman of the Republican City Committee, and a significant supporter of Mayor Charles S. Ashley. In the North End, where votes-buying for years has been open, and with a swap-over when the occasion required in Democratic votes for Republican State candidates and Republican votes at the city election following for Ashley, Murphy is credited with being the high card intermediary.

'I WON'T MARRY,' ASSERTS CORBIN

NEW BRITAIN, Ct., Dec. 14.—"Just say for me that I am not married; that I do not expect to be married before Saturday; that I do not expect to be married at all, and that the financial reward for my marriage is not sufficient for me to take the chance."

In these words Charles Corbin, son of Philip Corbin, founder of the Hardware Trust, who left several millions of dollars when he died December 16, 1910, disposed of the report that on Saturday, when his father's big estate is distributed, he would appear in court with a bride so that he could claim $15,000 cash.

There was the story that Corbin probably would wed Mrs. Lillian Blakeslee Corbin, who divorced him in June, 1908, but the story was without foundation.

The will of Philip Corbin contained this clause:

If within one year of my death Charles Corbin, my son, shall be legally married, he shall receive $150,000 in cash from my estate. If he is not legally married he shall receive $75,000."

So the determination of Charles Corbin to wed his former wife or any other woman will cut him $75,000. All in readiness for the distribution of the estate in the new Britain Peoples Trust Security. This distribution could not be made by the executors at an earlier date because of the clause relating to the son.

Charles Corbin in his youth was a trial to his father. His marriage to Mrs. Lillian Blakeslee in 1882 was frowned on by the Corbins. She was beautiful, but of social prominence, whereas the Corbins were social leaders.

Two children, Philip, Jr., and Minale, saw the wife of George Kohn of Hartford, were born.

Charles Corbin's habits became such that twelve or fourteen years ago his father had him sent to a sanatorium at Cottage City. There he stayed several years. Then he went to a country place owned by his father.

All this while young Mrs. Corbin and her children remained with her father-in-law at New Britain. When the son was grown and the daughter married, Mrs. Lillian Corbin sued for divorce. It is believed that Philip Corbin encouraged her in this step. The divorce was granted on the grounds of desertion and habitual intemperance. Mrs. Corbin got permission to resume her maiden name and to-day she is legally Lillian Blakeslee. Instead she is called Mrs. Corbin by her friends.

After the divorce Charles Corbin reformed. He stopped drinking and was put to work in the office of his father's hardware factory. In manner of life he became quiet as before. Until the day of his death Philip Corbin had confidence that Charles some day would awaken to the responsibilities of life.

BREAKS UP A BAD COLD IN A FEW HOURS AND CONTAINS NO QUININE.

It is a positive fact that a dose of Pape's Cold Compound taken every two hours until three consecutive doses are taken will cure Grippe or break up the most severe cold, either in the head, chest, back, stomach or limbs.

You distinctly feel the cold breaking and all the disagreeable grippe symptoms leaving after the very first dose. It promptly ends the most miserable headache, dullness, head and nose stuffed up, feverishness, sneezing, sore throat, running of the nose, mucous catarrhal discharges, soreness, stiffness and rheumatic twinges.

Pape's Cold Compound is the result of three years' research at a cost of more than fifty thousand dollars and contains no quinine, which we have conclusively demonstrated is not effective in the treatment of colds or grippe.

Take this harmless Compound as directed, with the knowledge that there is no other medicine made anywhere else in the world, which will cure your cold or end Grippe misery as promptly and without any other assistance or bad after-effects as a 25-cent package of Pape's Cold Compound, which any druggist in the world can supply.

GOVERNORS SEE STEEL PLANTS

PITTSBURG, Dec. 14.—The Western Governors temporarily deserted the political belt and devoted yesterday chiefly to the steel industry. At the first stop at Johnstown they were hurried through the Cambria Works. Here another committee took charge of the party, hustled it into a special train and steamed over to the Carnegie Steel Works. Later the Governors were taken by automobiles to the Carnegie institutions of learning where the visitors were divided into oratorical squads.

The so-called informal reception and dinner was given at the Hotel Schenley, at which there was a general outpouring of influential citizens. The special train left shortly after midnight for Columbus. Governor Harmon will accompany the party to Dayton and Cincinnati.

WICKERSHAM REPORTS TRUST WAR A SUCCESS

Trust busting in 1911 has been a successful settled. Some of them especially interest to Boston and New England are still pending, including cases against the Milk and Shoe Machinery trusts.

Suits Paid Financially.

Besides getting anti-factory court decisions against Standard Oil and the Tobacco trusts, Attorney-General Wickersham says prosecutions paid the United States financially. He says:

The total expenses of the department during the fiscal year 1910-11, including the office of the Attorney-General, all of the district attorneys' offices, and the entire cost of the conduct of those offices, amounted to $425,773.89. There was actually collected and paid into the treasury of the United States as a result of suits brought or commenced prior to the date mentioned, the sum of $1,634,095.39; in addition, the sum of $7,500.12 was collected by the settlement of suits, which is recognized as a large profit on that item, making an aggregate in all of $2,041,595.51.

The government won a victory in the Kinsaul and other cases in the Bark & Sons Company cases a year ago, which Mr. Wickersham says, paved the way for the more important and epoch-making cases of the Standard Oil and Tobacco Trust prosecutions.

Regarding the effectiveness of the anti-trust law, Mr. Wickersham remarks:

"The court in these decisions rejected a literal interpretation of the act which would have rendered invalid by condemnation every agreement which, in any respect whatever, restricted competition, and, holding that a reasonable construction must be given to its language, decided that test every incidental or limited restraint of competition was a restraint of trade within its meaning, but that a contract, combination, or conspiracy, in order to fall within the law, must impose a direct and undue restraint upon commerce between the states or with foreign countries.

"In the Standard Oil case, the decision was put upon the ground that the defendants, by vesting in a New Jersey corporation the stocks of a large number of other corporations engaged in various branches of the refining, transportation and marketing of petroleum and its products, which but for such control would or might have been engaged in competition with each other in interstate and foreign commerce in those commodities, had acquired the control of that commerce; and that such control was acquired, and had been and was exercised, with the intent and purpose of maintaining it not as a result of normal methods of business, but by all of the prosecutions instituted have unlawful means of combination, resorted to in order to secure greater power than would otherwise exist, and to effect directly and indirectly by means of such combination the control of the business of others who have been acquired by natural methods and of driving out and excluding, so far as possible, all competitors in the business, and thus monopolize it.

"The Tobacco case, the court found that the defendants had been engaged in a largely successful effort, extending over a period of years, to monopolize the purchase, manufacture and marketing of tobacco and its products and accessories, not by normal methods of business, but by unfair and unfair methods of combination, resorted to in order to secure greater power than they could have acquired by normal methods of business and exclude the intention of driving out and excluding, so far as possible, all other competitors, and centralizing in the combination a perpetual control of the movements of tobacco and its products and accessories in the channels of interstate and foreign commerce.

"In the Standard Oil case the Supreme Court affirmed the decree of the Circuit Court, which, in effect, required the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey to distribute pro rata among its shareholders the stocks of thirty-seven other corporations in turn held all or a majority of the stocks of a number of other corporations engaged in the same or similar business. The court enjoined the thirty-eight corporations and the individual defendants from in the future doing a certain character of enumerated acts which in the past had resulted in the creation of monopoly.

"In the Tobacco case, a far more intricate problem was presented. Conveyances, consolidations and mergers, and the dissolution of previously existing corporations which had stocks and properties had been acquired, had so blended the whole combination in a new form as to make it impossible in effect to direct a dissolution by the simple method applicable to the Standard Oil case. The Supreme Court, therefore, said that, in determining the relief proper to be given, it might not model its action upon that granted by the court below, but must approach the subject from an original point of view, being guided in its action by the following considerations:

(1) The duty of giving complete and effectual effect to the prohibitions of the statute by the accomplishment of the result with as little injury as possible to the interests which had arisen under the prior illegal conditions, but which, if enjoyed in any way, have become vested in many persons who, without any guilty knowledge or intent in any way to become actors or participants in the wrongs which we find to have existed and dominated the combination from the beginning.

Boston Cases.

In regard to the Shoe Machinery Trust the Attorney-General reports:

"As a result of an investigation conducted by a grand jury at Boston, Mass., indictments were found September 15, 1911, against S. W. Winslow and other members of the executive committee of the board of directors of the United Shoe Machinery Company and said company, charging them with engaging in a combination and conspiracy to restrain interstate commerce and with being a monopoly in shoe machinery.

He makes brief mention of the Milk Trust, saying: "Indictments were found May 26, 1911, against a number of individuals in Boston, Mass., charging combination to restrain trade in milk throughout the New England States. The cases are still pending, awaiting trial."

The Beef Trust case in the Beef Trust prosecution were those of the United States against John Rexford A. Sons Co. and the Consolidated Rendering Company, Ferdinand Sulzberger, Horatio W. Booth and Cyrus Hapgood, who were all indicted in Chicago in October, 1910. They filed demurrers and the demurrers were sustained on June 23 last. Regarding the decision the report says: "The government charged that the defendants had agreed to divide territory between themselves throughout New England so as to avoid competition and drive out competitors in the hide and rendering business."

Swift, Armours and other great Western packers were indicted in Chicago a year ago September last and Mr. Wickersham states the status of their prosecution as follows:

"The defendants interposed, as a plea in abatement, their acquittal under indictments found against them in 1904, upon a plea based upon the use, in procuring such indictment, of certain information they had given to the Department of Commerce and Labor. After full argument and consideration, this plea was overruled. Subsequently a demurrer to the indictment On full argument and consideration the demurrer was overruled. Shortly afterwards, the decisions in the Standard Oil and Tobacco cases were handed down by the Supreme Court, and defendants moved for reargument upon the ground that the Sherman Act, as construed by these decisions, was uncertain and incapable of enforcement as a criminal statute, and unconstitutional

To Remove Blotchy, Muddy or Sal low Skin

(From Beauty and Health.)

To remove sallowness, muddiness, freckles, blotches or any complexion difficulty, the best thing to do is to remove the skin itself. This is easily, painlessly and inexpensively done by the application of ordinary mercolized wax, procurable at any drug-store. The wax absorbs the defective outer skin, a little each day, gradually bringing the cuticle or second layer of skin to the surface. The pores are unclogged and the face breathes in the life-giving oxygen. The new skin is beautifully soft and white, bearing the healthy glow of youth.

Just apply the wax as you would cold cream, only not rubbing it in. In the morning wash it off with warm water. It's the most effective treatment I know of for blackheads, pimples, moth patches and liver spots.

Prevention of Accidents

The serious injury or death of a small child as result of a trolley accident arouses the keenest sympathy of the public, and all connected with our Company.

As a rule, lack of care by the one injured or whose life was lost is the cause of the calamity, but unfortunately this knowledge brings consolation to no one except, perhaps, the motorman who earnestly endeavored to prevent the accident without success.

WE BELIEVE THE SITUATION DEMANDS THE CO-OPERATION OF THE PUBLIC AND THE COMPANY. IT IS TO THE COMMON ADVANTAGE OF ALL CONCERNED TO PREVENT SUCH ACCIDENTS.

ALL ACCIDENTS DUE TO CARELESSNESS ARE AVOIDABLE. HOW CAN THE NUMBER OF SUCH ACCIDENTS BE REDUCED?

How is it possible to induce other users of the highway to be more careful of their own safety? This problem the Company is earnestly endeavoring to solve.

All have equal rights in the use of the streets. The highways are the great avenues of commerce and intercourse. Modern methods of business and civilization necessarily require the use of street cars, automobiles and horse-drawn vehicles. They have become to-day absolute necessities. Life in a modern city would be difficult if not impossible without them. They must necessarily be used, but they all involve a varying element of danger.

Adults realize the danger, but CHILDREN do not always, unless they are INSTRUCTED AND ADMONISHED.

We earnestly desire to co-operate with those who have the custody and instruction of children in an effort to COMPEL THE CHILDREN TO THINK AND REMEMBER.

With this object in view we offer 204 prizes to be paid in Gold. These prizes are offered for verses in rhyme of not over twenty-four lines for the entire composition, concerning caution in the streets, particularly relating to street cars.

All boys and girls in the High Schools or in Private Schools of a similar grade, who live in the cities and towns in which we operate, may compete.

The one awarded the first prize will be printed in attractive form for circulation. It will be distributed among the pupils of the Grammar, Primary and Kindergarten grades in the Metropolitan district. Other prize-winning verses may be printed and circulated from time to time.

$50 in gold for the First Prize
$25 in gold for the Second Prize
$15 in gold for the Third Prize
$10 in gold for the Fourth Prize and $2.50 in gold for the next best 200 submitted.

Send the verses to the Boston Elevated Railway Company, Room 210, 101 Milk Street, Boston, Mass.

Write "Verse Competition" in the lower left-hand corner of your envelope.

Write on a single sheet of paper and on one side only.

On the back of the sheet write the name and address of the author, and the name and grade of the school.

Clearness and simplicity of expression and good English will be considered in determining the choice.

All manuscripts must be received at the above address before 9:00 A. M., January 1, 1912.

Certain officials of the Company, designated by the management, will act as judges and as soon as practicable the successful winners will be announced through the newspapers, as well as by personal notification.

WICKERSHAM TO TRY SHOE CASE

United States Attorney-General Wickersham will personally conduct the proceedings to dissolve the United Shoe Machinery Company asked for in a bill in equity filed in the United States Circuit Court here by the government. The case will come up in the court in March.

Assistant United States Attorney-General Fowler, William S. Gregg, special assistant to the Attorney-General, and United States District Attorney French will aid the Attorney-General.

The last date for the defence to file an answer to the allegations in the bill in equity, charging violation of the Sherman anti-trust act, and asking the court to dissolve the alleged shoe machinery trust, is March 5. The final date for the counsel for the defence in the celebrated suit to file their appearance will be Tuesday, February 6.

Special Attorney Gregg is back in Washington. He will confer with Attorney-General Wickersham. The fight to be made against the United Shoe Machinery Company will be a bitter one.

A large corps of clerks in the United States Marshal's office were busily engaged yesterday afternoon preparing the subpoenas to be served upon the defendants named in the bill brought by the government, and the return date on these papers is March 5.

Inquiry into the state of competition in the shoe manufacturing business in Canada since the organization of the United States Machinery Company is now being made.

BISHOP ANDERSON ENDORSES TREATY PROTEST

Boston Clergyman Declares Russia Must Recognize All American Citizens or None.

the country and their passports ignored.

When any country thus discriminates unjustly against any class of our citizens it should be the duty of all American citizens to stand loyally together and refuse to accept any such discrimination. We ask equal protection and equal consideration for all citizens of none.

Let this protest of Boston citizens go forth ringing from Faneuil Hall, the Cradle of Liberty, throughout the land, until its loud notes are heard re-echoing in the halls of Congress, demanding that the passport of American citizenship be recognized by Russia for all our citizens, or else let the treaty now and forever with her be abrogated.

We demand this as due to the dignity of American citizenship, and we demand that this country shall speedily do her duties of protecting, defending and upholding the honor of all her citizens wherever found in any part of this earth.

Yours sincerely,
JOSEPH H. ANDERSON.

Telegram from Schiff.

Here is a telegram received by the league from Jacob H. Schiff, the banker:

I much regret that previous engagement here prevents my being with you on Sunday. You are right to move vigorously in a movement which is American and not mere sectional, and which so deeply concerns the dignity and self-respect of the government and the country we so proudly call our own. It is also much of a satisfaction and encouragement that both of the United States Senators from your State, whose influence is so far-reaching, have given assurance of their unreserved co-operation, which should go far to secure a successful outcome. Please express to those present at your meeting my warm interest and convey to them a message of cheer on my part.

JACOB H. SCHIFF.

Chairman Heller will preside at Sunday night's meeting in Faneuil Hall. Secretary Barnett said to-day, and the speakers will include Governor Foss, Louis Saltiel, grand master of the order Brith Abraham; former Governor John A. Bates, former Congressman John A. Keliher, Rabbi Harry Levey of the Temple Adath Israel, and Rabbi M. H. Eichler of the temple in Union Park street.

Congressmen Give Support.

Secretary Barnett to-day was nothing short of lavish in his praise of the Massachusetts representatives in Washington. "With no exception the sixteen Congressmen from the Bay State let it be known that they stand for the abrogation of the treaty with Russia unless the czar's government consents to give every American citizen, naturalized or native, the same deal.

"We had sent word to Washington of our coming and our mission," Mr. Barnett said, "and we were met in the rotunda of the Capitol by all the Massachusetts Congressmen with the exception of Mr. McCall and Mr. Lawrence. Mr. McCall having an engagement out of town, was represented by his secretary, Mr. Lawrence, at his hotel indisposed, sent word that we were to count him with us. The same message was delivered for Mr. McCall.

"And so, with the single exception of Congressman Gardner, we found the fourteen representatives from Massachusetts lined up for the Republican and Democratic allies. Captain Gardner, we feel sure, will be right if the question should eventually call for action on the part of the House, but as he was the lone Congressman who was not ready to 'commit himself,' he did say that we had already won our fight.

"Congressman Gillette of Springfield acted as spokesman for the delegation, and there was nothing the Congressmen could do for us that they left undone.

"Then we went to the Senators. Mr. Lodge and Mr. Crane received us in one of the rooms of the Committee on Rules. I do not feel at liberty to quote them to any extent, but suffice it to say that both gave us the impression that they stand for the severance of relations with Russia unless Russia is ready to be fair. Mr. Lodge feels that the question at issue has been hanging fire long enough. He is preparing a speech on the subject to be delivered after the holidays. Senator Crane seemed to all Senator Lodge said. If anything he went further.

Lauds Hearst Support.

"We know that Mr. Lodge was widely travelled, and, of course, feared he was familiar with Russia. We did not know, until this visit, that Senator Lodge himself has had Russian difficulties painfully brought to his attention. He was kept under constant watch, he told us. His mail was delivered to him opened in Moscow and Warsaw, and his passport was taken up. This to an officer of the United States government!

"In connection with the AMERICAN'S announcement of the big meeting Sunday night in Faneuil Hall it might be well to emphasize the fact that the men in the Passport League represent the 48 United States are not foreign-born citizens of this country, but are, as it so happens, native sons of the United States.

"Moreover, it would ill become these native sons not to say now, and to say with deep appreciation, that the splendid already successful strength of the movement has come from our Christian friends. We all felt this very much.

"Mr. Hearst has taken part in the movement, I am happy to say, stand, as usual, William Randolph Hearst and his great papers. Mr. Hearst has fought the fight nobly, and not an editorial in his papers has been without its tribute to him. The feeling of gratitude to Mr. Hearst and his newspapers was phrased very happily in Washington by Judge Julius Mark of the Commerce Court:

"I don't think that there is anything more to say to-day about the Sunday night meeting, except that it will be a splendid muster of the patriotic sort, and that there'll be American flags for everybody, and everybody will wave them at the right time. It ought to be a great night in the Cradle of Liberty."

BAY STATE MEN HELP VICTORY OF SULZER RESOLVE

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—Three Massachusetts representatives, McCall, Curley and Murray, were among those taking a prominent part in the debate which preceded the passage by the House of the Sulzer resolution to terminate the treaty with Russia unless that country agrees to honor the passport of all American citizens. The vote stood 300 to 11. Representative Malby, Republican, of Northern New York, was the only member to vote in the negative. The Senate has yet to take action, but the Foreign Relations committee of that body has a measure under consideration.

Speaker Clark called Representative Curley to the chair to preside for a part of the session, Representative McCall elected a more conservative course than most of the House favored. His speech commanded close attention, but drew criticism from Representative Murray. Mr. McCall doubted whether the evidence was conclusive that Russia had violated the treaty, and suggested that the matter might well be submitted for arbitration.

"I am sorry," said Representative Murray, replying, "that the only point raised in this debate against the proposition that there have been violations of the treaty with Russia is the voice of the venerable member from Massachusetts, my colleague (Mr. McCall). I sincerely hope there may be no mistake as to the position of Massachusetts on this matter. Here is a proposition that has been going on for forty years. We insist that a case has been made out by the proponents of this legislation, and we insist further that the only reason that no evidence was presented to the committee against the proposition was because there was no voice that could be raised in opposition."

Attack Russia's Course.

Representative Curley said that for many years "the policy of the Russian monarchy has been to deceive this country and, with platitudes, promise to determine the question by means of a commission or the pressure of legislation upon the Douma. The insincerity of such promises has been at all times so patent as to form little less than a flagrant and continued insult to the intelligence of the American people.

An attempt led by Representative Olmsted of Pennsylvania to modify the Sulzer resolution so as to avoid making the direct charge that Russia had violated the treaty in refusing to recognize the passports of American Jews was defeated by a vote of 184 to 115.

The debate in the House bristled with questions that Russia's action was an offence against the United States and that her exclusion of American Jews who bore properly certified passports was an affront to this government. Representative Longworth of Ohio thought that the "time for arbitration has gone by and the time for action has come."

"This ought not to be considered in any way an affront to Russia," said Mr. Longworth. "The United States desires Russia's friendship; but this question is above and beyond friendship; it is a question of national honor."

Declare Treaty Violated.

The resolution passed by the House declares that "the government of the United States will not be a party to any treaty which discriminates, or which by one of the parties thereto, is so construed as is discriminate between American citizens of the ground of race or religious belief, and adds:

"The government of Russia has violated the treaty between the United States and Russia, concluded at St. Petersburg, December 18, 1832, refusing to honor American passports duly issued to American citizens, on account of race and religion; and in the judgment of the Congress, the said treaty, for the reasons aforesaid, ought to be terminated at the earliest possible time."

The attitude of William Randolph Hearst on the Jewish passport question was hailed as "magnificent" by Senator Robert Love Taylor of Tennessee. Senator Taylor also spoke enthusiastically on the stand of Mr. Hearst as expressed through his newspapers in favor of the direct election of United States Senators. Senator Taylor said:

"Mr. Hearst without question is extremely influential in the moulding of public opinion in this country, and for that reason I am delighted with his attitude on two questions which I consider of paramount importance:

"First, the necessity of universal direct primary laws as a means of enabling the people to take an actual part in the affairs of the country.

"Second, the importance of impressing on the Russians the advisability of respecting the passports of American citizens, of whatever race or religion.

"In politics Mr. Hearst is a factor that must be reckoned with, as is evidenced by the facility that he has over and over again overcome unjust attacks have been made upon him by self-advertising politicians.

"His newspapers have set a standard in journalism that few have equalled and none has surpassed. Some of us may disagree with him in some particulars, but no one can deny that his forceful personality, however it may at times be misinterpreted, is in the end found to have been always exerted in behalf of the whole people.

"Fights Cleanly and Ably."

"My admiration for Mr. Hearst is that of an elder man for a young man whose growth has been watched with no disappointment. My attention was first called to him by and during the Spanish war when he had first ventured into the journalism of New York. The news, reliable, accurate and readable, that he gave to the readers had impressed me, and I predicted for him a great future as a newspaper man.

"I have watched his course in a number of political campaigns and have always noticed that he conducted his fights clean-ly, and with one single purpose of accomplishing results, not the himself, but for the people. This gave proof of his worth as a public man.

"I am a Democrat of the old school. I am neither an extreme progressive nor a reactionary. The principles of Jeffersonian democracy, the vintage of half a century ago, are too deeply a part of my political nature to enable me to approve of what some people call the new democracy. I have some gentleman's disagreement with Mr. Hearst and some of his policies, but it does not blind me to the fact of his value as a factor in the common effort to go ahead.

"All Mr. Hearst accomplishes nothing else as the result of his public career than the securing of a constitutional amendment enabling the popular election of United States Senators, he will have rendered a vast and far reaching service. The United States Senate is composed of representatives of the States. It is the conservative and the balance wheel of the nation. Senators are clothed with more power than members of the House. The States are equal in representation in the Senate.

"It is of just as much importance, therefore, to the people to be directly represented in the Senate as they are in the House and they can only be directly represented by voting directly for senatorial candidates.

"If the Governors of States are elected by the people, if the members of the Senate are elected by the people, then why should not the members of the Senate be elected by the people?

GERMANS FOR HEARST RECIPROCITY PLAN

BERLIN, Dec. 14—The recent declaration by William Randolph Hearst in favor of commercial reciprocity between Germany and the United States is arousing much interest and favorable comment throughout the country.

The question has been taken up in the highest diplomatic quarters in Berlin and it has been decided Germany wants reciprocity with the United States.

Almost without exception the financial and industrial leaders are enthusiastic in seconding Mr. Hearst's suggestion. In political circles the same feeling prevails.

The AMERICAN correspondent has just had an interview with a man high in the foreign office who undoubtedly will represent in Germany in any future proceedings that take place between the German and the American governments in relation to a treaty of reciprocity.

The German officials are exceedingly cautious about allowing their names to be used in connection with any statement for publication. It is a sacred rule, seldom violated with impunity, that no department chief or subordinate must permit himself to be quoted in the newspapers. Yet this official, after a consultation with other heads of the government, talked freely and frankly, only stipulating that his name must not be published.

Seek a Fair Bargain.

"Of course," said he, "the actual conclusion of a treaty of reciprocity between the two countries would depend very largely upon what the United States had to offer Germany; that is to say, the question is, would the United States be willing to make adequate concessions in return for what Germany would make? Germany naturally would have to be satisfied that the bargain was a fair one."

Thus it will be seen that the German foreign office already has its eye on the bargain.

"I assume," said this official, "if we are to give the United States concessions such as we have already made in our special treaties with certain other countries, that would be looked upon as an equivalent for concessions which we should expect in return from America.

"I see," he continued, with a twinkle of the eye, "that in spite of the fact that the United States reciprocity treaty with Canada has fallen through, Canadian woodpulp and print paper is still being admitted in the United States free of duty. I assume we should have at least equal opportunities with Canada in that respect.

"There is no reason why Germany should not make an agreement with the United States of the kind suggested by Mr. Hearst. We already have had several treaties with the United States. I believe there is one still in force made between the American government and the Prussian government in 1828.

"The people of Germany appreciate highly the sentiment which exists in America in favor of reciprocity with our country. There are undoubtedly many things we can send into the American market without injuring American interests, but which would benefit Germany. In the same way there are undoubtedly many American products which could be sold in Germany to the advantage of America, and at the same time would not interfere with German industries."

Favored by Privy Councillor.

It would be difficult to find in all Germany a man better qualified to speak on all the varied interests of the empire than Privy Councillor Max Goldberger. For men in private life stand so high in the favor of the Emperor. He is a leading member of the Imperial Consultation Board for the Preparation of Commercial Treaties, and there are few men in the empire whose advice is more widely sought than that of Herr Goldberger. He is known in Germany as "The Great American Prophet," largely through his book, "The Land of Unlimited Possibilities," an enthusiastic estimate of the resources and prospects of the United States.

"Certainly Germany wants reciprocity with the United States," said Herr Goldberger. "The difficulty is not going to be here in Germany. If Germany could negotiate a treaty with the President of the United States or with the Secretary of State, and be sure the treaty as agreed upon would be ratified by the Senate, that would be quite another matter. But how can you assure us that after we have struggled through all the intricacies of a question so complicated as that of the tariff, and have agreed upon what we are willing to give the United States in return for what they are willing to give us, how can you assure us that the United States Senate will not oppose the whole thing, and we shall have nothing for our pains?

"The fact that a man of Mr. Hearst's influence in America has seriously proposed a reciprocity treaty with Germany on that side of the water is certainly significant of public feeling. Of course we were greatly pleased.

"Feeling of Sympathy."

"Notwithstanding temporary differences, there exists a deep feeling of sympathy between our nations. The world's trade belongs to Germany and to the United States. They should not try either to Americanize or to Germanize each other. The industrial and commercial people of the two nations should become better acquainted with one another and should come nearer each other.

"Each nation has its own excellencies. You excel in some things, we in others. And so I am convinced German and American interests, far from being conflicting, can become really harmonious."

Baron Gottfried Von Eckardstein, who in his younger days was an attache at the German Embassy in Washington, is one of the rising powers in German politics. The Baron is heartily in favor of reciprocity between Germany and America.

"Will Find Ready Response."

"In fact," he said, "I was so impressed with the growing importance of closer commercial relations between the United States and Germany that I am taking steps, through the Press Association in which I have an interest, to supply the German newspapers with a wider range of American news.

"I consider Mr. Hearst upon having opened up a subject of such vast importance to both countries. I am sure he will find a ready response from the German people."

Professor Alwood, active executive of the American Association of Trade and Commerce in Berlin, said:

"There is no doubt that the time is now ripe for reciprocity. I know what I am talking about. There is a big field here for American manufactures and still more for the sale of raw material. One of the big things to be done here is to secure the admission of American meat, which is at present kept out of Germany largely for political reasons.

"The American goods here have the reputation of being the best in the world. The German goods are cheaper, but they make nothing better. They are the most progressive people in Europe and the quickest to take up with new things such as are supplied by American manufacturers."

POLICE INQUIRY ON FATAL BURNING

The Brighton police began to-day investigation into the death of Mrs. Annie Shanley, who was suffocated by smoke in a fire which burned out her apartment in No. 22 Mead street early yesterday. The relatives of the woman declare there are many suspicious circumstances surrounding the fatality.

IT REALLY DOES THE WORK

Do You Sleep Well?
Many business men complain of not feeling rested after a night's sleep. They awaken several times during the night, to doze off, after a time, fretful and disturbed. Others step more and they find themselves sufferers from insomnia—unable to sleep much if at all. Nothing is more distressing or antagonistic to health and happiness. Heretofore the remedies that have been offered have proved of little avail. Worse still, their habits have been to contain constipating products and opiates—dangerous, habit-forming drugs.

HOPE FOR THE DEAF
Remarkable Experience of Those Dead to the World of Sound With a New Treatment for Deafness That Is Wonderfully Efficient. LAST 2 DAYS. 1 MONTH FREE

ABSCESS OF THE EAR
Miss Selina Bellveau, residing at 3 Pearl Terrace, Somerville, Mass., writes under date of January 15, 1911, as follows: "I was troubled for many years with a discharge from my left ear, causing me great pain, with ringing noises and total deafness in that ear. A local physician lanced the abscess several times, but did not succeed in stopping the noises or in curing my hearing. Mrs. Stanley, who resides in the same house that I do, told me about the Dean-Chemic Physicians and how they cured her, and advised me to consult them. I did. Now the abscess is gone, with the ringing noises, and I hear with the ear that was deaf perfectly."

DEAF SINCE CHILDHOOD—HEARS
Miss Florence Jerrion, 112 Main St., Everett, says: "I had been in my right ear for some time, when I learned of the Dean-Chemic Physicians and treatment for the deaf. I had distressing noises in my ears and could hear scarcely anything. After being treated by the Dean-Chemic Physicians, the noises ceased, and I hear again in both ears."

DEAF THIRTY YEARS—HEARS
Miss Minnie Dewar, who resides at the Hotel Isabella, 24 Isabella street, Boston, said to the Dean-Chemic Physicians:
"I had been deaf in both ears for thirty years, and also had ringing noises in my head, which nearly drove me crazy. I was also troubled with no apparent relief, and I had almost given up hope of ever hearing again, when I was advised to go to the world-famed Dean-Chemic Physicians. I did so, and the head noises are all gone and I can hear now. I cannot thank them enough for what they have done for me, and I would advise all who are deaf to consult them without delay."

DEAF FIVE YEARS—HEARS
Mrs. Lois A. Wyman, aged 68, who resides at 1 Bass St., E. Dorch., says: "I had been deaf for five years, and had noises in my head for two years longer. I had tried a local doctor and many methods and medicines that were highly recommended, but they did me no good. I was told that I was deaf for life, and that I had been a deaf child since infancy. I had given up hope of ever hearing again, and was becoming more and more discouraged, when I read about the Dean-Chemic Physicians. I went to see them, and am pleased to say that I can hear as well as I ever could, and the noises have entirely disappeared. I am very grateful to the Dean-Chemic Physicians for what they have done for me, and would advise all who are deaf to consult them."

DEAF FOR A YEAR—HEARS
Mr. W. C. Wright (aged 26), post conductor, Gethsemane Cemetery, Malden, Mass., says: "I was deaf in my left ear for a year, and had noises in my head. I consulted the Dean-Chemic Physicians, of Boston, and after a few treatments my hearing was restored, and the noises disappeared. I am very grateful to the Dean-Chemic Physicians for what they have done for me, and would advise all who are deaf to consult them."

ONE MONTH FREE—LAST DAYS
The Dean-Chemic Physicians, in order to demonstrate their ability to cure deafness, head noises, catarrh and kindred diseases, will give one month's free treatment to any one who is deaf, has head noises or catarrh. This offer is made for a limited time only, and is open to the first 100 persons who call at their office. ABSOLUTELY FREE. This liberal offer will bring the cost of a course of treatment sufficient to cure the most obstinate Deafness within the reach of all. FOUR SLAIN AND BURIED IN BARN

TROYY, N. Y., Dec. 14.—Following the discovery of one of the worst crimes in the history of New York State, the police are today hunting for a farmhand suspected of murdering Mrs. Asha Vanner and her three children, Arthur, twenty-eight years old; Edith, twenty, and Blanche, seventeen.

The bodies of Mrs. Morner and her two daughters were found last night, but the son's body was not found until early today. Each only had been decapitated and otherwise mutilated. Then they were buried in refuse in a cow stable back of the Morner farm house in Blooming Grove Hathaway county.

An Italian employed as a farmhand, who was known only by the name of Ed, is missing. A hatchet found in the stable is believed to have been used by the slayer.

Neighbor Discovers Crime.

A letter in Italian addressed to "Ed" Dennis was found in the Morner man's room. The door of the farmhouse had been broken in. On a piano in the sitting room was a note reading:

"Italian meat and American-made sausage imported from Rome, Italy."

It is the theory of the sheriff that the men, Arthur was the first killed, and Ed the slayer waited at the door and struck each woman over the head with the hatchet as she entered. It is believed that he then dragged the bodies to the place where they were found and after mutilating them buried them beneath the planks and rubbish. The crimes are thought to have been committed about noon Tuesday.

The bodies were discovered by a neighboring farmer, Albert Sharp, who wondered why the milk had not been delivered. He drove over to the Morner farm, getting no response to his knock at the farmhouse door, he went into the stable and noticed stains on the floor.

Find Mutilated Bodies.

The trail led down an alleyway where horses were stabled to another stable at right angles where cows were kept. At the farther end he stumbled over a hatchet which bore evidence of having been used in the mutilation of bodies.

With the hatchet sharp cut up a loose plank and saw protruding from a pile of straw part of a woman's body. The gruesome sight caused him to drop the hatchet and run for the stable. He aroused the neighbors and the authorities were notified. When Coroner Strobe of Poestenkill arrived he tore up the planking for a space of about ten feet long and two feet wide. In this space were huddled trunks of the bodies with decapitated heads, mutilated arms and legs.

Mary, Empress of India, in Robe Worn at the Coronation Durbar

This photograph shows the new Empress of India, wife of King George V. of England, in the imperial robe with its magnificent train of Irish lace, made by the women of Ireland for the occasion of the coronation, which took place at the great Durbar at Delhi.

BROZIA HEARD AS MARGUERITE

By FREDERICK JOHNS.

Zina Brozia, whose antipathy to shoes and stockings distinguished her Thais among the Opera Comique stars, made of the spectacle of a barefoot Marguerite in "Faust" last night at the Opera.

Marguerite, a part whose demureness and conventionality is probably unparalleled in opera, would seem to offer no opportunity for hoseless calves, but Zina found a place for them in the prison scene where their actuality seemed appropriate enough.

And more wonderful still, I have discovered that Mademoiselle Brozia beats time to the music with the big toe of her right foot. It could be distinctly seen the big toe of her right foot. It could be distinctly seen the ing and falling in harmony with the tempo pointed out by Maitre Cupiet.

The performance was a Parisian "Faust." The cast included Zina Brozia of the National Opera; Edmond Clement, the idol of the Opera Comique; Leon Rothier, a star among Parisian basses, and Jean Bildeer, a popular Parisian baritone.

KING REVIEWS INDIA'S ARMY

DELHI, India, Dec. 14.—Great Britain's immense Indian army of 80,000 passed in review through the gaily decorated streets of Delhi, the newly-created capital of India, today. They passed for inspection before George V., the King-Emperor of England and India, and between lines of 200,000 visitors and natives who looked in awe upon the long lines of scarlet and khaki.

The scene was one to rival the gorgeousness of coronation day, for it combined a display of brilliancy together with an inspiring picture of force of arms. The Oriental sun glistened upon the burnished gun barrels and bayonets of the troops and the streets trembled beneath the thunder of cavalry.

Flags fluttered at the head of the various battalions and scores of brass bands poured forth martial music. Cheers from Britons and natives alike greeted the array of soldiers.

It had been feared that the military display might result in a hostile reaction against the government, as unrest has been growing for the past several years and this has lately been augmented by the famine.

DUKE OF FIFE LAUDS RESCUE

TANGIER, Dec. 14.—The Duke of Fife, who remained on board the stranded steamer Delhi some time after the others had been taken ashore, today warmly praised the heroic work of the sailors of the French cruiser Pluat who rescued the passengers from the liner.

"They deserve the warmest praise, for they risked their lives to save our women," said the Duke. "They ran their boats into the most dangerous places in order to take off the passengers of the Delhi, and every minutes they were in danger of being swamped."

Because of the gale runs which were attempting to get close enough to the stranded vessel to take off the mails and $1,500,000 in bullion had to stand off. Fears are expressed that the ship will break up and that the mails and specie will be lost.

Princess Royal Louise, the Duchess of Fife and her daughters, Princess Alexandra and Maud, members of the British royal family, who had a narrow escape from death when the steamship was wrecked, were taken on board the English cruiser Implacable today.

The Implacable set off for Morocco from Gibraltar under a full head of steam upon receipt of news from the disaster. The Duchess of Fife and the princesses spent the night in the British consulate here. All were suffering from exposure and the nervous shock which accompanied their adventure. When the royal party arrived the members were wearing part of their own clothing and other garments furnished by the wife of an old lighthouse tender at Cape Spartel.

CURIE DIVORCE COMPROMISE

PARIS, Dec. 14.—The Curie-Langevin affair, which has aroused such angry feeling and provoked so many duels, arrived in the divorce court yesterday.

Mme. Curie, one of the discoverers of radium, was named by Mme. Langevin in her suit for separation from Professor Langevin, the eminent physicist. None of the parties was in court.

In her petition, presented by Maitre Condy, Mme. Langevin asks for separation from her husband, which, in France becomes a divorce in three years. She also asks for the custody of their children—the girls until the reach their majority, the girls until they reach their majority, can choose between their parents; their father to direct their education; the children to divide their holidays between the parents. Mme. Langevin asks further for $120 a month allimony.

Maitre Condy announced in court that if a separation is granted Mme. Langevin will withdraw the plaint she brought in the criminal court against Professor Langevin and Mme. Curie.

The brief M. Condy submitted to President Monier for the court contained all the testimony available in the case. Besides he handed up letters which, it is alleged, passed between Mme. Curie and Professor Langevin. Among the letters are those Mme. Langevin removed surreptitiously from her husband's apartments. These letters, M. Condy contends, prove "grave indiscretion, if not meaning either physical cholence or moral wrong.

Maitre Raymon Poincaire, a Senator and a member of the Academy of France, Prof. Langevin's counsel, opposed the action of Mme. Langevin's petition. This proceeding is customary in France, even when the parties to the suit have reached an agreement.

The lawyers refused to say whether a general agreement has been reached, seemingly waiting for President Monier to render his decision next Monday. It remains for him to determine whether the statements in the documents submitted to him justify a separation. If not he may order evidence to be produced in court and pleadings to be made.

Gustav Tery did not publish in this week's issue of his pamphlet, "L'Oeuvre," in which will appear to-day, the additional documents in the Curie-Langevin scandal which he promised a fortnight ago. It is highly improbable that these alleged documents ever will be produced.

Instantaneous Wrinkle Lotion Easily Made

(From Signs of the Times.)

Beauty specialists, physicians and chemists long have sought some method of removing wrinkles that would not only be really effective, but that would not injure the skin in any way, nor cause any bad after-effect. A simple astringent and tonic lotion which seems to meet these requirements has at last been found.

Any woman can easily make the preparation at home, by procuring an ounce of powdered saxolite and a half pint of witch hazel at the nearest drug store, mixing the two. By bathing the face in this liquid the skin immediately becomes taut and firm, likewise the muscular tissue underneath. The effect is to push out and obliterate the wrinkles, as well as to draw in hanging skin about the cheeks, chin or neck. Enlarged pores are reduced, the skin looks more refined and the face more youthful. The lotion is wonderfully refreshing and invigorating.

RAIN OR SNOW ON WAY TO HUB

How would a little snow go?

The local weather bureau allows that Boston may have snow to-morrow, if it doesn't rain. The forecast is:

"Fair to-night. Friday unsettled, probably rain or snow."

Meanwhile to-day broke crisp and cold. In spite of the way the cooler weather disposes of the Winter coal Bostonians welcomed the change from the unseasonable warmth of the past few days.

The temperature at midnight was 37. By 8 a. m. it fell three degrees to 34. This was twenty-three degrees colder than at 8 a. m. the day before.

While Boston was at 34 at 8 a. m. New York was 36, St. Louis 30 and Chicago 34. Jacksonville, Fla., was balmy at 64; so was New Orleans. The coldest spot on the weather map was Modena, Utah, which had 6 degrees above zero. Key West thermometers reated at 76 for the other extreme.

Summing up the national situation in his line, the weather man said that conditions were unsettled throughout the Mississippi Valley and Gulf States, while the West was generally fair with a tendency to cloud up.

MYSTIC "OOM" AT OLD TRICKS

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—"Oom the Omnipotent, Swing Gort of the Tantricks," has set up a new establishment. "Oom," etc., otherwise Pierre A. Bernard of Seattle, alias Peter Coe of Chicago, was arrested in May, 1910, when the police raided his "House of Mystery" at No. 258 West Seventy-fourth street on complaint of Zella Hopp and Gertrude Lee, who swore that when "initiates" of the Hindoo cult that "Oom" affected they were passed into the "inner circle" and made participants in orgies under the cheering influence of the Hindoo.

The charges were so serious that "Oom" was held in $15,000 bail, but when the time came for the girls to repeat their stories at the trial of Oom they left the state and the authorities were compelled reluctantly to agree to "Oom's" release.

Has Ad in the Papers.

On last Sunday there appeared in newspapers this modest advertisement:

N. Y. SANSKRIT COLLEGE, 2-7 Broadway, Mott entrance, 2d W. 27th st. Free public lecture Sunday, 3 P. M. "The East Indian Sacred Language," by Pandit Hurdat, Niranan—Salvation and Bliss," by Pandit Ram Singh. Admission to all free; no collection.

A young woman who applied at the rooms on the "N. Y. Sanskrit College" there encountered the same old "Oom." There was another man present and after very little preliminary conversation, this young woman said she was ready to prepare for the first step in the "initiation" into the Tantrik mysteries of worship. The two men, she said, led her into a room and as the door closed there came to her ears the spring lock. She turned and saw no handle to the door. Later she saw that it was opened by the pressure of an electric button near which the Guru stood.

Woman Near Hysteria.

What manner of incantation, "mystic genuflexation" and other forms of worship of "Oom" were revealed to her the young woman was too shocked and distressed to describe when she finally was released from the room of the spring-lock door. The young woman is not easily excited and has strong nerves, but on leaving the place she was so distraught as to be on the verge of hysteria. She denounced "Oom" and his teachings unreservedly.

When the reappearance of "Oom" in New York was told to District Attorney Whitman he said:

"There will not be a minute lost in investigating this fellow. If I find he has reopened the practices that I have every good reason to believe he promoted in the past and for which I would have placed him on trial had it not been for the disappearance of the two young women who would not repeat before a jury the stories they told us and told in the magistrate's court—if I find any such condition now existing I will certainly order his arrest."

Even the Siebel was Parisian, Mademoiselle Cadige of the Comique, and Cupiet, the conductor, hails from Paris. The Italian tenor chorus alone prevented a perfect reproduction of what occurs at the Paris Opera many nights during the season, for the male chorus of our Opera can sing only in the language of Dante and Carmen.

For this reason it was an extremely interesting "Faust," but candor compels the admission that musically it was nothing wonderful.

The modern French opera singers have a monopoly upon the modern French roles because other nationalities can't or won't sing them. When they sing "Faust" they come into competition with the rest of the world, for "Faust" has long been the property of all nations.

It is bad for the French singers to enter the lists with the Italian, American, Spanish and German singers of the present day, because without all their virtues they do not possess many wonderful voices. And the greatest of all interpreters of modern French opera is an American French woman, Mary Garden.

With his prelude let us consider what happened last night. Zina Brozia made a very beautiful Marguerite. If she lacked the ewelike innocence of the German ideal, she was at least simple and sweet and animated. She acted well, if with a monotony of gesture. . . . She was charming in her garden and, pathetic in her action, had her grey prison draperies which left her arms, neck and legs bare were extremely becoming.

I liked her voice much better last night than in "Thais," when she was extremely nervous. It is a pure lyric soprano, very pleasing to hear, and very effective in the spinning song. It is not brilliant in its upper tones, as was shown by the Israel song, which was the least meritorious thing she did. It has enough dramatic quality so that it was satisfying in the church scene and beautiful and thrilling in the prison music.

Long, Silken Lashes Add Greatly to Beauty

"Eyes are of diminished loveliness, indeed, if the eyelashes and eyebrows be ill kept," writes Lina Cavalieri, famous beauty and grand opera star, and the woman who would add to her personal charms brushes them daily with a soft brush. In this way the eyebrows can be trained to a high arch and the lashes made to curl.

To make thin, short eyelashes grow in long, thick and silky with a beautiful curl, get a 2-ounce original package of pyroxin from your druggist, at a cost of about one dollar, and apply to lash roots with thumb and forefinger. Applying pyroxin to straggly eyebrows will make them long and silken. No possible harm or injury can follow the use of pyroxin, but care should be used not to get any where no hair is wanted.

Clergyman's Son Cured of Tuberculosis

Consumption is a flattering disease and the sufferer is filled with bright hopes of improvement. Call it by its own dread name—and there is no disease so fatal because it is so deceptive in Tuberculosis. No one need doubt about it—there is plenty of evidence from live witnesses. Investigate the following:

Amenia, N. Y.

"Gentlemen: Prior to Feb., 1908, I was located in Rochester, N. Y., suffering with Laryngitis, which developed into Tuberculosis. My physician gave me six months to live. I was losing terrible night sweats and midday chills and losing flesh rapidly, having gone from 156 to 125 lbs. I despaired and I would die and became so weak I quit walking. I was fast failing and my physician, home my regular physician, gave me all the encouraging news. My father who is a clergyman, heard of Kenoyer's Alterative and induced me to take it. The night sweats and chills disappeared, my cough became easier and gradually diminished, and in a few days I developed an appetite. I gained in flesh and now I weigh 170 lbs. to the day of certain taste now to go to church. Alterative cures.

Yours truly, J. E. COWLES.

Sam Crane's Story of World's Fifty Greatest Ball Players

JAMES H. O'ROURKE—NO. 3.

What fond recollections cluster around Jim O'Rourke, that sturdy old timer and present young fellow, whose long baseball career of over forty years as an active player stamps him as the "Grand Old Man" of the national game.

Jim is still in touch with the sport that he was so prominently and honorably connected with so long, and as a member of Board of Directors of the National League of Professional Baseball Clubs, his wise counsels are taken as little short of "this law by the big and important organization of minor leagues that just finished its annual session at San Antonio, Tex.

Jim O'Rourke is just as sturdy and stanch a character as his baseball career of nearly a half century would seem to warrant.

He had to be "the class" mentally and physically to enable him to finish as an active and strong as he started, and that is what Jim did.

O'Rourke Began with Orioles.

Beginning to play around the lots in Bridgeport (Conn.), where he was born, in 1854, Jim gained more than a local reputation, and in 1871 joined the Orioles of Hartford, Conn., and was then asked to play in 1872 with the famous Mare Reiss of Middletown, a club at the time that was second only to such teams as the Atlantics of Brooklyn, and the Mutuals of New York.

The Mansfields turned out many a star player who became prominent in big league baseball, among them being Tim McTamany, Jim Clapp, Jimmy Tipper, Jack Kelly and others.

Harry Wright took his Boston Reds to Mansfield in 1872 and that fellow manager immediately saw the possibilities of young O'Rourke as a player and signed him for the Boston club in 1873, as change catcher and first baseman.

In 1874 Jim was made the regular first baseman of the Boston club, filling the place of Deacon Pratt, who went to the original Cincinnati Red Stockings.

In that year Jim led in batting in fielding as a first baseman, and his batting was nearly .400, being .397, and was the first year in the big league.

You remember O'Rourke well when he joined eral times to secure a share in several New England teams.

When President Navin was asked about the deal he said:

"It is true that several Detroit men are out to buy the Providence team and while the deal has not been formally closed yet, I have every reason to believe that the papers will be signed within a few days."

Mrs. Britton Present.

The big baseball pow-pow will end this afternoon after the National League has had a short session to conclude its annual business, and then there will be nothing to do for the magnates until next Spring, when the schedule meetings will be held.

For the first time in history, a woman was present at a major league meeting Mrs. H. H. Britton, the owner of the St. Louis team, remained throughout the entire session and was an interested spectator. Mrs. Britton took no vote, however, in the meeting.

She is no Suffragette and she allowed President Steinger of the club to do all the voting.

The National League adjourned a short time after noon today. Among the business still to be considered is the proposed amendment of the peace agreement as suggested by the National Association, and Class A. A. League, which has already been ratified by the American League.

It is expected that the meeting will not last over an hour, and then the several hundred baseball scribes who have been closely watching the movements of the men high up in the two big leagues, will have several months to drop out stuff for the hungry baseball fans.

Murphy Changes Mind.

Thomas J. Lynch will remain president of the National League for one year more at least. The magnates of the parent major league re-elected their executive at the second day's session of their annual meeting by the flattering vote of 6 to 2. Previously a rule Brennan never applied the popular choice.

Charles W. Murphy, the noisy disturber from Chicago, who twenty-four hours before had been fighting tooth and nail for Robert W. Brown, the dark horse from the south, experienced a change of heart overnight and was one of the first little fellows to line up for Lynch's reappointment. Murphy hates a fake.

Just as Murphy had predicted, the magnates also repudiated his erstwhile bosom friend, Morgan, pushed Garvey Lee aside and warmed him to keep his own side of the fence hereafter.

The re-election of Lynch was the only matter of importance that the meeting had to its credit. It was expected that the National League would answer the startling ultimatum delivered by the American League at its meeting the previous day, by electing the one best in the opinion of the majority of the magnates. Perhaps Lynch's circuit is deserving of a trifle more consideration.

It is proof it was announced that no official will be made of hostilities had pushed either August Herrmann or Tom Lynch aside. Each of the men will be given a fairly potent or messenger service.

Before the close of the session a copy of the National Agreement, as affecting the two major leagues and O'Kel the baseball commission organization and National League president were not so far as the opinion of the latter is concerned, worked on the ticket scandal, the committee of nine must have failed to get a line on the "root of the investigation.

League to Ignore Insult.

Perhaps the National League is sincere in its attitude of ignoring the insult. But it is generally believed that the old major league is either stalling for time or attempting to bank in the hope that time is a healer of all wounds.

Both Lynch and Herrmann talked quite freely about the subject at the Athletic banquet, but both declared newspaper men had included them in the "no comment" list. Until the official notice from the rival organization is delivered there will be no consideration of the matter, they said.

Both met Ban Johnson at a conference of the National Commission, but they stated that the grim warrior from Chicago had made no reference to the late unpleasantness. To the public in general it looks as if the National League intends to ignore and slip insult if such it may be called.

In this attitude the National League magnates appear all of one mind. But to that point a one for a new feud has come up in the condition of affairs at Cincinnati. Charles H. Ebbets and Charles W. Murphy are now at each others throats. Ebbets declares he was tricked by his old associate.

It was Murphy who framed up the opposition to Lynch in the person of Robert W. Brown, a Louisville newspaper man. Murphy went into the meeting determined to nominate Lynch, but John Whalen of the New York Club beat him to it.

Ebbets Purple with Rage.

When Ebbets heard Murphy second the nomination, he grew purple with rage. The Brooklyn magnate and Horace Fogel were through with their old friend. Again, were badly shown up but stuck through to the end. What influenced Murphy a change of heart is a mystery.

It is said that Hermann had no occasion to spring his surprise, having written by Fogel to Murphy. Charles Webb smelled a rat and took the difference to Julius Fleishman of Cincinnati, is here, and, as a stockholder of the club, included with the other National League magnates. The head of Secretary of the National League will be continued of representatives from the Pittsburg, Cincinnati, Brooklyn and New York clubs. The new boss of these teams succeed the board just season.

The annual meeting of the Pittsburg Club was held in Jersey City. All the officers were re-elected, and John P. Harris, former president of the Rustlers, was added to the board of directors.

The National League honored Joe O'Brien, the new secretary of the Giants, by appointing him a committee of one on transportation. William Locke, the secretary of the Pirates was chosen to be auditor of one on hotels.

Davis Turns Down Offers.

John Gannel the perpetual pennant pilot of the International League has landed a whole team of major leaguers. Frank Farrell turned over to him outfield Pitcher Klepfer and Catcher Walter Kelly. Farrell also gave him three Senators in Wid Conroy, Jack Lelivet and Dolly Gray.

Joe Jackson was batting for Connor Dalrym of the Naps, with the result that half a dozen Cleveland talent has been promised.

Harry Davis turned down two offers for George Stovall. Jimmy Callahan proposed a swap for Stovall, while Frank Navin of Detroit tried to barter for George Moriarty. Both Callahan and Orange Callahan tried in vain to woo Bert Chase from Boston, but his present position was not made public.

Clinton Rickey, Houghton, the Brooklyn outfielder, to the Springfield, (Mass.) team for $1,000. And to the Toledo club for Jimmy Smith, the former first sacker of the Pirates. Frank Smith, the Cincinnati pitcher, former "iron man" of the White Sox, will last together for an extensive tour of Europe.

Manager Billy Clymer of Wilkes-Barre, purchased from Rochester outfielder George Hunter, who was drafted from that club by the Broncos the past season.

ROUSE HIGH MAN IN CITY LEAGUE

Carruth and Murray & Irwin divided the honors in the City League at Chester Carruth Alleys, each team carrying away two points. The later team carried away the high honors of the match, with a three-string total of 1,504, and a single string total of 550. Green of Murray & Irwin had the high single string of the evening with a pinfall of 125, while Rouse of Carruth was high three-string man, with a total of 348.

It was impossible to accommodate the large crowd that applied for admission into the Carruth alleys and many of the fans had to be turned away.

Carruth started off with a spurt and easily captured the first string with a total of 529, winning by 33 pins. Murray & Irwin evened up matters in the second string, winning by 10 pins.

In this string every man on the team rolled over the century mark, Mr. Kee being high with a total of [illegible]. Carruth rolled over the century mark, Mr. Kee being high with a total of [illegible].

The third string was hard fought, but Carruth managed to win out by 21 pins, leaving the total to Murray & Irwin by two pins.

The big surprise of the evening was handed out by the All-Star team at the Chauncy alleys, Bill Beatty's bowlers counting three out of four points. The Washington street rollers were away off form and made one of the worst showings of the season. Their three string total was 1,363. Chauncey fared little better, falling four pins below the 1,400 mark.

Beatty, who featured the Adams Square-Boylston match, the former team winning three out of four points after some hard battling. Adams Square won the first two strings by sixteen and ten pins respectively.

Clark Steele's boys came back strong in the final string with twelve pins better than Adams Square, but fell ten pins short of evening up matters.

Hayward surprised McCarthy by winning all four points. The matters were pretty even, but luck was not with Tom McCarthy's pets.

Notes of the Alleys

Bushnell is leading in the tour of row running at Eddie Wise's alleys on Eliot street with a three string total of 374. One ball to a frame, a total of fifty-one consecutive strikes, with strikes to count as two, going on each succeeding frame with Muslin for second with 320, while Hayes and Clarke are tied for the third with 1,850.

Pat Lang of the Carruth rollers, has picked up a diploma, which states that any one man in the City League can bowl a three string total of 300 or better. Pat has accomplished the feat on two occasions, and every theory, learned all things, old and new, including fast to the fact that Pat Lang is a bowler.

The Emerson rollers who are tied for first position in the Commercial Bottle P in league with Post, are all on the honor class. Dr. Simson leads the league, while Anderson of the Emerson team is close behind, while Anderson of the Emerson team is close behind.

At the Washington street alleys, where a two and one half mile run is held, Jim Rush, formerly of the Olympic alleys, has made one single string total of 161 pins any night. He put eight spares and a strike, the other but being a miss.

An international bowling tournament, the first of its kind in the history of the game, is being arranged by Harry Clarke, president of the Chicago White Sox. It is planned by Clarke to bring a team of nine from England, Germany and France to compete with the best bowlers in America. The match will be arranged for early in the Spring and it is expected that the men will compete. The American, Bowlers will be selected from the best in the country, and it is also certain that the match will be held in Chicago.

Rooney and Haley are tied for first position in the Individual rollers in the Mystic Valley League with a mark of 190. Jack Taylor is second with 189 in the City League, Taylor's average is also 90. A funny coincidence.

"Don" MacPhee has returned to work at the Union alleys and is now in full charge. His debut in the new alleys was to offer an interesting contest giving away $125 to the best rollers. The contest requires three weeks' competition.

Athletics and Tigers the Only Ones Sure to Have Their Old Executives.

Five American League clubs will have new managers next year, now that the appointment of Harry Wolverton to command the New York Yankees is confirmed.

Jake Stahl will run the Boston Red Sox, of course. Jimmie Callahan has been picked to boss the Chicago White Sox, Harry Davis will be in charge at Cleveland and Clark Griffith will manage the Washington Senators.

Connie Mack is delighted with the changes. "They're all clever baseball men," he said, "and they will make a hard fight against the Athletics and Detroit. The Athletics will do their best, however, to win another pennant, so as to tie the Detroit record of three straight."

Ben Shibe, the Athletics owner, is fearful that his old team will not repeat. But Ben feels that way last Winter, too.

The National League will have at least two new managers—Dan Howley of the Cincinnati and possibly Red Hanlon in Brooklyn. By the way, Dan's appointment is something of a joke in one respect. Garry Herrmann bet the newspaper men that his selection of a manager would surprise them. They made all sorts of guesses, but failed to name the right one.

"I had to own that bet," said Herrmann, explaining afterwards, "so that is why I picked Hanlon's name."

It's a safe bet though that Herrmann and Garry appointment "up his sleeve" for some time before the Wolverton an Old Player.

Harry Wolverton, the new manager of the Yankees, is thirty-nine years old. His birthplace being Mount Vernon, Ohio. As manager and captain of the Oakland Club in the Pacific Coast League this year he surprised baseball fans by playing 175 games in fifty days. But he will not play next season, although he will wear a New York American uniform and will direct the team from the coaching lines.

Wolverton followed the Yankees' career ever since he sold Cree, Warhop, Keep and Manning to Frederick Farrell. He was manager of the championship Baltimore Club in 1902 and managed Toledo, Columbus in 1903 and Montreal in 1904. Wolverton is also credited with having been a pitcher up to four years ago, and could also play anything but the outfield. He was a member of the Chicago team in 1898.

He was sold to the Philadelphia Nationals and in 1901 he signed with the Baltimore club, but went back to Columbus. Washington lured him from there and he managed Nashville. Memphis and Birmingham before he went to Toledo.

Wolverton was traded to the Boston Nationals in 1905, but refused to report to them. Because of this he was sold to Will Annis, who in turn sold him to Jack Dunn, owner of the other Tri-State league.

Successful as a Manager.

When Wolverton won the pennant with the Williamsport team the Tri-State had been admitted to organized baseball. He won the pennant in 1906 and managed the team of the Newark club the early part of 1907, when he was released. He then managed a team of [illegible] Farrell and George Stallings that year in Jersey City and Elizabeth. He and Clay Smith, and as Manager Wolverton managed the league to a second place finish in 1909 and third this year. President Farrell, it is said, paid $3,000 in cash for Wolverton's release from the Packard club. The deal was closed. Monday it went by J. Cal Ewing of San Francisco, who is the Yankees of the Pacific Coast League. Mr. Ewing said that he thought Wolverton would be successful in New York. "Wolverton is aggressive, strict and competent," he continued. "He's a man of ideas and has plenty of nerve. He will stand no nonsense and is a taskmaster. Mr. Farrell has made a move in the right direction."

AMATEURS IN BOUTS AT B.A.A.

Two bouts were decided at the B. A. A. last night in the amateur boxing tourney of the B. A. A. style. A large crowd was in the cadet gymnasium on Exeter street.

All of the bouts were fast and interesting. In his bout last night Sandow was said to defeat Jere Ilmenth, and the latter longer is one of the cleverest amateurs in the 110 pound class in this district. Sandow looks like a certain winner when his next bouts are to be held next Saturday night.

The bout between John Vincenzo of Brockton and Harry Stewart was one of the fastest affairs ever staged at the B. A. A. in many months. After a few rounds of very fast boxing Vincenzo was given the award. The summaries:

Boxing Results In Many Rings

PARIS, Dec. 14—Georges Carpentier, the seventeen-pound French welterweight champion, defeated Harry Lewis of England in a twenty-round fight at the Cirque de Paris. The fight was declared a draw by the referee on points. Parisian society, including hundreds of women in evening gowns, saw the contest, and applauded the decision of the judges, when was unanimous in the Frenchman's favor. Carpentier had all the best of the fight, but failed to land a finishing knock-out blow. Lewis came on fresh for the fifteenth round, but Carpentier easily outclassed him. The bout had no betting on it, but Carpentier was considered the favorite by the spectators.

NEW BEDFORD, Dec. 14—Noah Brusso won the referee's decision after a fast six-round go with Jimmy Coughlin of Fairhaven before the New Bedford Athletic Association, hammering Connolly into such groggy condition in the seventh round that the referee stopped the contest in the sponge. Brusso practically won in the first round, when he landed a right-hand upper cut that put Connolly out. The next final was one of the fastest seen here in boxing. Albert Wolf of Fall River and Jack Lloyd of Boston fought a hard battle, the latter gaining the decision. Lloyd was the better boxer, but Wolf was a willing mixer, and exhibited some heavy punishment. Foley was awarded the bout [illegible] in the preliminary bout.

PITTSBURG, Dec. 14—Eddie McGoorty of Oshkosh and Harry Ramsey of Philadelphia fought six rounds to a draw here in the first two McGoorty looked like a sure winner. Daysey Mayme and Her Folks

By FRANCES L. GARSIDE

Her Beauty Culture Plans Affect the Whole Family.

DOES the Lord, who tempers the wind to the shorn lamb and without [illegible] falls to the ground, make any provision for easing the hurts of the man whose wife and daughter are trying to become beautiful?

If He does, then let the heavens weep in sympathy for Lysander John.

Daysey Mayme Appleton added and abetted by her mother, is trying to make herself over in accordance with the plans and specifications [illegible]

Books. She is taking a book over [illegible] another one there and letting out seams and hems, and making such wonderful changes in the original pattern that when she gets through her own mother won't know her. And her father is the victim.

When Daysey Mayme found she was getting so fat a straight front corset had no more effect on her figure than if laced on a feather bed, she issued an order that henceforth no fat-producing food should appear on the Appleton table, and with every pound she lost her father lost a pound. Then, to begin with, he soon began to look like the original Cuban reconcentrado, and if a fashion decree hadn't ordered more fat she would have dieted him to the dimensions of a clothes horse.

Coffee, said the Beauty Book, means sallowness; no coffee at Appleton's, which means, later for Lysander John. Salads make pimples, and Lysander John is deprived of the pleasure for using vinegar and oil. Buckwheat cakes result in an [illegible] Lysander John elgins and eats dry toast. Cakes, pies, puddings all detract from good looks, and Lysander John, who doesn't want to be beautiful, is compelled to take the cure.

His wife and daughter don't remember to sew on his buttons, for thinking produces wrinkles, and as for worrying about him when he has no appetite, or falls sick, heaven forbid! Instead, he knows that worry will make him old? They tie up their chin to have it set right to get rid of a double chin, their hair stands it is so tight as hard and round as the knob on the dresser drawer to make it curly, they roll on the floor to become supple, and the only place left for him to sit is on the top of the dining room table; their conversation runs to the virtues of cream and creams, and any attempt to inject any sense into their talk serves only to remind them that it is time to inject out under their wrinkles.

He goes to the icebox to get a drink of [illegible] and finds himself tasting a preparation to remove freckles. He spreads what he thinks is butter on his bread and finds when he reaches the better light in the dining room that it is skin food; a taste of the stuff warranted to keep hair in curl became the final straw, and now when he is hungry he sucks a raw egg.

In the meantime Daysey Mayme and her mother never gossip, for that means evil thinking, and evil thinking mars beauty; they don't stay up late nights, for early hours means beauty sleep, they don't smoke or drink, for both injure the complexion, and their living is so simple that the grocer complains.

"As the original member of the Look on the Bright Side Society," said Lysander John, who dreams at night that he is a pork of route floating on an ocean of cold cream, "I find something left to be thankful for."

The Art of Being Liked

No. 1

By Dorothy Dix

WOULD you like to be popular? Would you like to be one of those fortunate people at whose coming every eye brightens, every lip curls into a smile, and every hand goes spontaneously out in friendship?

"Reflect on the feelings with which you listen to the male egotist."

Of course you would. The real, secret, universal desire of the human heart is for popularity, and if some good fairy should offer as our greatest wish we should ask for the power to win the admiration of our fellow creatures.

But, you say, you are not one of the lucky few who are born with a Certificate to the Lodge of Goodfellowship in their mouths, so to speak. Further, you opine that the art of being a heart smasher is one that comes by nature, and not by grace, and that popularity's middle name is really personal magnetism, which the gods give, or withhold, and for whose possession or lack the individual is in no wise responsible.

To a degree this is true. Why some people draw to them every one with whom they come in contact in no more than explained than why the magnet attracts the needle. Undoubtedly there are people possessed of an almost hypnotic power over us, whom we like in spite of ourselves, and often against our better judgment. They have a way with them that we find it impossible to resist, even though we may disapprove of them to the highest degree.

They Are Smooth

These straight, [illegible] traits are, however, in a very small [illegible] They are almost as scarce as Lydia Pinkham, and for the most of our acquaintances we could assign a very clear reason as to why we like them or dislike them.

In this, it seems to me, is the tidings of great joy, for it shows that the secret of popularity is not in the middle of the Sphinx, as many suppose, but is simple as every day art at which even the most bungling of us may become reasonably expert if we devote a little intelligent time and work to it.

But how shall you go about learning this charming accomplishment of being [illegible] liked, you ask? Suppose you take yourself as a standard of the individual to be pleased because all human nature is cut off the same bolt of cloth, and the things that please you are pretty sure to please other people, and the things that get on your nerves are likewise the things that rankle other people's nerves.

To begin with, what is the one particular quality in another person that makes you want to take to the tall timber when you see him or her coming?

Egotism!

There is nothing else under the sun that is so afflicting, so unendurable, nothing that bores with the bore of a forty-inch auger, as the man or woman who does a monologue about his or her individual affairs.

Reflect, beloved, on the murderous feelings with which you sit up and listen to the man who discourses hour after hour about his business, his automobile, his golf, his dog, his game of golf, and how he could have saved the President from making the mortifying mistakes if only he had been consulted.

Reflect the way your heart goes down at every heels of your slippers when the woman comes to spend a long day with you in order to relate to you all of her private affairs.

Oh! the Agony!

Reflect upon your agony, as she dusted upon when she said to her husband, her husband said to her, and her husband said to both of them, and her own mother said to all three of them. Remember the weariness with which you listened to the account of all her tribulations with servant girls of every nationality, dates concerning the infant phenomena [illegible] baby, nor even to recount the [illegible] her nursery, nor even to remember the lurid descriptions that she anybody wants to hear you talk about your diseases and operations.

Forget not the endless string of anecdotes with which you are [illegible] willing to deny yourself of the joy of talking about yourself? That's the first step to popularity.

Do you suppose, if you are a man, that you would be willing to sit and listen to your mother or your wife, week in and week out, by the hour, while she told you the details of your success in business, or cares three raps whether you have got a Tweedle-de-dum 30, or Tweedle-de-dee 40 automobile?

If you are a woman do you suppose that any other woman in any more keen to hear the smart things that your children say than you are to hear about hers, or that she takes the slightest interest in your troubles with your servants? Nor does anyone pine to spend a joyous hour being soaked in your tears, any more than your years to be picked down in their weeps.

Just mark this down—the first aid to popularity is to banish your own egotism down under an iron heel.

CLEMENCY shut the book she was reading with an impatient movement. It folded her hands upon it, and sat staring into the fire.

"I must have help," she said desperately. "I can deal with individuals, but not with figures. But Conrad seems to have absolutely lost interest in my plans—I believe he would forbid them if he could, and I had hoped so much from him."

A pause started up into her mind from the innermost recesses where it had been lurking ever since that first night at Lovegrove lane, when the germs of the idea of the House of the Ever-Open Door had come to her; the name of Frales Bertram, the woman who had appealed for some such shelter home for women.

Shelter House for Women

"There is no other woman in London who could help me in just the same way that she could help me," she told herself. "I should have gone to her a week ago but for Conrad's unreasonable prejudice against her."

At lunch she acquainted her husband with the newly made determination to take Mrs. Bertram into her confidence and, partly to her relief, partly to her surprise, he raised no objection, however indirect.

"A good idea," he remarked. "As you say, it is essentially a woman's work to understand that Mrs. Bertram, despite her extraordinarily sensitive appearance, is an excellent woman of business. Of course, I don't wish to advise you in any way against your inclinations," he added, with a touch of stiffness, "but if you care for my blundering assistance when it comes to mere concrete business details, need I say that it is at your service?"

Mrs. Bertram was in when later Clemency reached her flat in Battersea; she appeared, indeed, to be holding some sort of reception, Clemency found, when the lift landed her at the top story of the block of flats overlooking the green spaces of the park. The front door was open, and the small, square hall seemed full of coats and hats and feminine wraps.

Clemency would have gone without leaving her name, only, as the servant hesitated to allow her, a door to the right of the hall opened and Mrs. Bertram came out, glanced toward Clemency and came forward in greeting.

"I shall be at your disposal in half an hour, Mrs. Tring," she glanced at the card Clemency had given her, "and if you have so long to spare I think you will enjoy the meeting that is in progress, an informal drawing-room meeting on behalf of the work that is so near my heart."

"Now that we are alone we shall have tea and a cozy talk," Mrs. Bertram said after the meeting. "And if you're not shocked—a cigarette. No, I didn't expect somehow, that you would be shocked, nor yet that you would smoke. Of course, one does become the slave of the habit, but it's a so extraordinarily soothing habit."

The Two Important Things

She leaned back in the chair again after the cigarette was lighted, looking, as Tring had said, singularly boyish. She wore a house gown of some dark material made in a spare fashion that reminded Clemency oddly of a clerical cassock; it was square-cut at the neck and bordered with a bright line of silk that looked for all the world like the pereole of the monsignori.

"Somehow, I felt I must come to you," Clemency said. "I have thought about this scheme—about nothing else practically—ever since the night I heard you speak at the settlement in Lovegrove lane. Yet I was anxious to do the thing myself in my own way—at first. Now"—she looked at Mrs. Bertram with the clear, innocent eyes of a child—"I find I cannot. I am really a very limited person, after all. It's a humiliating confession to have to make, but really I have nothing whatever to bring to the enterprise except money—and enthusiasm."

"Except — money — and — enthusiasm," Mrs. Bertram repeated very slowly, with a wonderful inflexion in her voice. "Except the two things without which all enterprise must fall, dear Mrs. Tring. How rarely fortunate you are to be able to offer both these gifts!"

It seemed to Clemency that she had never talked as she talked that afternoon. The floodgates of her very heart seemed to have been opened and all the thoughts and hopes long gathered there came flowing softly on an easy tide.

She stopped abashed once, looking at the clearcut face of the woman in the deep chair.

"What a wonderful listener you are!" she cried ingenuously, and Mrs. Bertram smiled, leaning forward and flicking the ash from her cigarette.

"Then let me advise you," Mrs. Bertram said, a trifle eagerly. "Will you put yourself in my hands? Yes? Oh, my dear, it's quite wonderful, but I have a site—plans for the great building—the very little deeds ready for your hands! It's like some miracle. You come to me by no chance, even your hesitation was providential. A week ago I should not have been ready for you! But now—it almost seems as though it only needed your word for the whole wonderful scheme to burst into vivid, living blossom at once!"

A Surprising Look

Clemency's heart gave a quick throb of excitement.

She glanced up into the face bent over her own, and her eyes met Mrs. Bertram's and looked away again with a sense of shock. For in those long, dark eyes she saw, or imagined she saw—it could only have been imagination, she assured herself—a look horribly akin to that selfish greed that had shone in the eyes of the woman who had begged from her in the Poplar slum the night she had slipped down to see the man whose face was like the marred face of her dead lover.

As the cab crossed the bridge, carrying her homeward, Clemency felt a sudden girlish longing to see her husband, to pour out to him the whole history of this most wonderful evening.

She had dined with the Bertrams—Mrs. Bertram had insisted on that. Mrs. Bertram would have easily enough have overridden a more strenuous resistance to the plan than any Clemency had to offer. Frankly, she was charmed with the new acquaintance in which she found herself; everything delighted her—the dimly lighted, crowded rooms with their rich, Oriental coloring, their Morris draperies, their pewter and brass. All the artistic stock-in-trade that might to a very up-to-date person unpublished with such households have seemed a little out of date was new and fresh to her.

Mr. Bertram she had, perhaps, liked less than his wife or his house, yet she had liked him very much nevertheless. He was not by any means an insignificant person, nor overshadowed by his wife as Tring had laughingly told her he was bound to be. He was a tall, handsome, bronzed, persuasive person, who looked far more like her ideal of Sir Richard Burton than the architect he had proved to be.

During the dinner, which was quite excellently cooked and served, he had talked far more than his wife. Listening to him, Clemency had felt an almost jealous pang. Here in the flesh she saw before her the ideal union after which she had yearned—the good comrade with identical aims.

SUNDAY'S AMERICAN.

CARE OF THE HANDS. ARMS AND SHOULDERS.

Mme. Lina Cavalieri, the most famous living beauty, has named this the ideal season, because so many girls and women are wearing at this time low-necked and short-sleeved dresses. She has given the use of THIS PAGE advice as to how to keep the hands, arms and shoulders white and smooth and of becoming proportions, whether you bear now too fat, it especially needs.

Up-to-Date

"HALLO!" Jellinson cried, as he encountered his acquaintance Barwood in the street. "Thought you were getting married to-day. Postponed?"

"Altogether," answered Barwood firmly.

"Not even engaged now, then?" pursued Jellinson.

"No. The lady I was to have married was too modern—too up-to-date for me."

"Up-to-date?" The excuse astonished Jellinson. "How on earth——"

"Wrote her last Monday saying I was coming to see her on Wednesday. You see, although we'd been engaged for some time I'd never formally proposed, and she seemed to want it. So I went on Wednesday—just to satisfy her mind, as I thought. Got there, and found she had sold the rights of photographing me at the moment of proposing to a picture postcard company. That settled it."

$500,000 GEMS FOR MRS. GARY

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—A $500,000 pearl necklace, it was reported on good authority to-day, would be a Judge Elbert H. Gary's Christmas gift to Mrs. Gary. The necklace isn't precisely a Christmas gift, as both Judge and Mrs. Gary have been engaged several years in matching the pearls, but the fact that it was considered only a few days ago endows it with the Yuletide spirit.

TETRAZZINI SUBMITS A BROWN BREAD RECIPE

Mme. Luisa Tetrazzini, the famous prima donna, arrived in Boston yesterday and entered her name in the Brown Bread recipe contest now going on in the AMERICAN.

Madame has some reputation as a cook having recently written some articles on culinary affairs that were widely read. Brown bread, she declared, was by no means an exclusively Boston preparation inasmuch as the Italians were fond of it. The following is madame's recipe with few Italian ingredients:

One cup graham flour, one cup rye, one cup Indian meal, one teaspoon salt, two spoon soda, one egg, one pint of sour milk and a cup molasses; stir well, adding milk to be well mixed, add the molasses and well-beaten egg. Mixture must be soft as thrown pat in buttered receptacle and steamed three hours, keeping the water boiling steadily. Beat to at last one heaping tablespoon of stewed pumpkin, which makes the Brown Bread or "pane vera," as we call it in Tuscany, where it is staple diet, moist and soft.

Famous Prima Donna, who arrived in Boston yesterday, at once entered the AMERICAN'S brown bread contest, giving a recipe with Italian ingredients.

Suffragist? The Idea!

Madame Tetrazzini received the newspapermen very graciously yesterday. As she majestically swept into the room, she carried in her right hand what at first appeared to be a fine bouquet, but which proved to be a fighting fan. This is "Tosca," her answer. Mme. Tetrazzini's sister and son-in-law and a nurse in charge of the baby had given it to the prima donna. The latter quite evidently likes the gift.

To the question as to whether she had as yet become a suffragist, Madame very naively responded: "Oh, I am a lady. "I do not vote," she continued, "how most women can be interested in politics without detriment to their family affairs. While our husbands ought to ought to be at home consulting her cook books, she would be perusing the latest campaign literature. While she ought to be on guard against the pranks of her own boys, she would be watching the manoeuvres of the political leaders. Finally, your voting woman would be not a ward-heeling when she ought to be home a potato peeling."

Those Clasical Dances.

Madame also had a word of censure for the growing tendency of introducing classical dances with the attendant abandonment of costume, into grand opera.

"Some call it art," she commented, "but in reality it is vulgarity in respectable garb. I do not see how people can denounce vulgar burlesque shows and wax museums when the same perfectionness is often introduced into grand opera."

Here are some other recipes:

One and a half cups corn meal, 1¼ cups rye meal, 1 cup flour, 2 cups milk, 1 cup molasses, 1 cup hot water, 2 teaspoons soda, salt; steam three or four hours.

Three cups Indian meal, 1 rye or graham flour, 1 cup of flour, 1 cup molasses, 1 tablespoon lard and salt; dissolve soda in molasses, a little salt; steam 4 hour hours, then bake 1 half cup of milk if you wish.

MRS. ANNIE W. HALL,
No. 231 Everard st., Washington, D. C.

Two cups Indian meal, 1 cup rye flour, 1 cup pastry flour, 1 spoonful soda, a little salt, ½ cup molasses; mix with sweet milk as thin as you would griddle cakes and put in your steamer in the bottom of your kettle and set bread in and steam three hours.

MRS. R. G. SAWYER.
South Hamilton.

One cup graham flour, 1 cup rye flour, ¾ cup Indian meal, 2 cups wheat, 1 cup molasses, 1 teaspoon soda, 1 teaspoon salt. Add sour milk to make batter thin enough to pour. Steam three hours.

MRS. A. H. MUNKITTRICK.
No. 10 Salon st., Dorchester.

Mix half a pint of rye meal with half a pint of granulated corn meal and the same quantity of whole wheat flour, also a level teaspoonful of bicarbonate of soda, dissolve it in a tablespoonful of warm water, add it to a cupful of New Orleans molasses, mix and add to one pint of thick sour milk or buttermilk, add a teaspoonful of salt. Pour this into the dry ingredients, stir thoroughly, turn into a greased brown bread mold, tie down the cover, place in a steamer or in a kettle, partly surround the mold with boiling water and boil continuously for four hours, adding boiling water from time to time as necessary. Half a cup of raisins may be added if desired. A teaspoonful baking powder tin may be used in place of a mold.

MRS. A. E. COX.
No. 153 Savin Hill avenue, Dorchester.

Two cups of meal, 1 cup of flour, 2 cups of sour milk, 2-3 cup of molasses, ½ teaspoon of salt, 1 teaspoon of soda. Steam 2½ hours. Put the batter in a 5-pound lard pail and then in a 10-pound pail with the water and put in the oven.

AUTO REGISTER FORCE IS BUSY

By J. C. KERRISON.

The automobile department of the Massachusetts highway commission is particularly busy these days receiving applications for re-registration from the automobile owners. The present registration expires on the last day of the year, and it is necessary to renew the same as early as possible.

A few days ago the commission sent out application blanks to the registered owners with the request that registration applications be made immediately. These application blanks were sent to all holders of registered numbers below 5,000, which numbers will be reassigned for use in 1912, providing application for the same is received by Commissioner Fuller.

The result of this has been a great increase in the business of the department—something like 250 applications being received each day—and it is now estimated that at least 10,000 numbers will have been delivered for use before the first of January.

In order to properly discharge the business of the office, Chief Clerk O'Hara has found it necessary to work his office force both night and day.

The great majority of the dealers throughout the State have already made application for the re-assignment of their numbers, as they have to start the new year right.

The Linscott Supply Company, which has just taken possession of the new quarters at No. 166 Columbus avenue, is the Hudson Chain Cycle and Sundry Company under a new name—the only change being in the name. This company was incorporated for eighteen years at No. 48 Hanover street, and while at first its chief aim was to supply bicycle sundries, it has progressed with the times so that to-day it is more of an automobile sundry house than a bicycle sundry distributor, although the latter field is by no means overlooked or forgotten.

At a meeting of the Directors of the Studebaker Corporation held in New York December 7, J. M. Studebaker was elected chairman of the board of directors, Fred'ck S. Fish, vice president, was elected president in his place. Clement Studebaker, Jr., was elected first vice-president and chairman of the executive committee, A. E. Erskine, treasurer; Frederick P. Delano, jr., special counsel and Scott Brown, general counsel and secretary.

J. N. Gunn of New York was appointed general manager of the Studebaker Corporation for the purpose of coordinating the administration of the automobile division and the horse-drawn vehicle divisions and the various divisions of the business. The other officers of the company remain as before.

With six months of its 1912 season still to run, sales of the Packard Motor Car Company equal the entire output for the season of 1911. Orders for Spring delivery have broken all records for that time of year. More specifications were received during the past week than any other week since July 1.

The original line of enclosed bodies for this season is practically closed out and a supplemental factory order is now coming through.

The success given the six-cylinder car of the Packard "38" has been a powerful factor in the increase in sales. Orders are being received call for three times as many "sixes" as for the well established "Thirties."

TO-DAY'S STOCK MARKETS

NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—Strength in United States Steel proved the feature at the opening of the stock market to-day. Steel common opened at 67, or ¾ above Wednesday's close, and on subsequent trades seldom attained an aggregate advance of 1¼. The preferred was up ⅝.

Firmness also characterized the copper group. Amalgamated rose ⅝ and American Smelter gained ⅝. The buying in both groups was attributed to the cheerfulness of the markets.

Traders heard reports that the earnings of the United States Steel Corporation for the quarter ending this month may reach $25,000,000. Among the other gains were: Reading ¾, Pennsylvania ¾, Baltimore & Ohio 1⅛, Lehigh Valley ⅝, Union Pacific ⅝, Missouri Pacific ⅝, Southern Pacific, Atchison and Southern Railway ¼.

The curb opened strong, firmness of American Tobacco on dividend talk being the centre of interest. Americans in London were higher and the same was true.

Would You Like to See a Happy Man?

Go Out to Oregon and Look at Bill Hanley. He Cuts 25,000 Tons of Hay a Year

Copyright, 1911, by American Journal-Examiner

It was a fine thing for New York to see those travelling Governors, big men mentally all of them, most of them big physically, EVERY MAN OF THEM A DEMOCRAT IN THE REAL SENSE OF THE WORD.

Each had something to tell that the people in the East need to know, and, what is most important, every one had a message encouraging to the entire nation.

They offered homes for millions of human beings. They told of the vast resources of this wonderful land, as yet barely understood and not half developed.

They told of the wonders that the Western people have accomplished almost over night, the great dams to hold the precious water for irrigation—one single granite wall in Governor Carey's State, Wyoming, holding back water enough to cover 1,100,000 acres one foot deep in water—and that stone wall not the highest irrigating dam in the State.

Wealth hidden in the mines yet to be taken out, wealth unlimited lying under man's eyes in the fertile soil waiting for the brains and the labor and the FROZEN LABOR, which is money, to release thousands of millions in new prosperity—those are some of the West's attractions.

Governor Carey spoke also for the absent Governor of Colorado. The Governor talked to men who thought of Colorado only as a land of mines. He surprised the East by telling that Colorado is to-day the greatest beet-sugar-producing State in the Union—a marvel that has been accomplished in less than ten years' work.

Every one of those travelling Governors was a messenger of education, of hope, a man realizing and eloquently emphasizing the greatness of this nation.

The greatest of all perhaps in picturesqueness and in his appeal to the imagination was one in the party who was not a Governor, and that was BILL HANLEY OF OREGON.

He is spoken of here as Bill Hanley because he is never spoken of otherwise.

SEE BILL HANLEY IF YOU WANT TO SEE A HAPPY MAN.

When he drives his cattle to the railroad from his farm it takes him fifteen days to do the driving.

On his land this year he cut 25,000 tons of hay—think of that, Eastern farmers, buying pressed hay by the carload and paying nearly $30 a ton!

Bill Hanley's farm is a real farm. It has mountains and valleys, rivers and marshes and dry spots, and wonderful rolling prairies, and it covers 200,000 acres.

Is this a country of opportunity? Ask Bill Hanley. When he first reached Oregon his property consisted, his friends say, of one horse, one rifle, one lariat, one bottle of liquid refreshment and the clothes that he wore.

Except that Bill Hanley now owns 200,000 acres of land and some tens of thousands of cattle in addition to his original outfit, he is the same Bill Hanley that rode hundreds of miles from the railroad along the Western fields wondering whether his Western trip would be a success and how long the liquid refreshment would last.

There is a chance for many millions of men in the West. But don't forget THAT THERE IS ALSO A CHANCE FOR MANY MILLIONS OF MEN IN THE EAST.

If Bill Hanley had been riding around Boston in a street car at the time when he was riding around Oregon on his horse, he would very probably be the owner of something very considerable in Boston to-day.

There are chances all over this country, chances here in Massachusetts, plenty of chances across in Maine and New Hampshire.

The thing to do is to be an alert, enterprising, fearless citizen, watch for your chance and seize it.

Such was what Bill Hanley did.

There is plenty of success lying around in every corner of this land—success as great as that of Bill Hanley.

But, as that pioneer truly says, the BEST happiness that goes with success is the kind of happiness that he has found IN DEVELOPING THE SOIL.

There is nothing real after all BUT THIS EARTH ON WHICH WE STAND.

The man who digs in the earth, plants it, cultivates it, improves it, is the real man, and his is the REAL happiness.

Get a piece of ground of your own if you can. Make something grow where nothing is growing. Be your own boss, your own lawmaker within your own dominions, feel that you have created and own what you get—and you will know the happiness that shines in Bill Hanley's wide, good-natured, sun-burned face.

It would be worth going away out to Oregon and then riding 150 miles from the railroad station to see him.

Perhaps if you think you want to go West and if you write a letter addressed to Bill Hanley, in care of Governor West of Oregon, you might get some useful suggestions. Or the Governor of Oregon, himself a keen, earnest, progressive man, might send you suggestions.

All of those great Western States—California, Idaho, Minnesota, Oregon, Wyoming, North Dakota, South Dakota—all need men and money. As Governor Oddie of Nevada said, they need men more than they need money, for in a land of such rich opportunities the men can make the money.

The Sunday AMERICAN'S Official Photographs of the Papal Consistory

The only photographs ever taken at a Papal Consistory, showing the Pope on his throne and other dignitaries of the church, were made at the recent consistory in Rome when Cardinal O'Connell of Boston and seventeen others were invested with the insignia of Princes of the Church.

These pictures were taken by the official photographer of the Vatican—the only person who is permitted to take photographs there.

By special arrangement the Sunday AMERICAN was able to obtain these pictures exclusively, and they will be printed in a special four-page picture section of next Sunday's AMERICAN.

No other newspaper has these pictures, and they are the only pictures that were taken of the ever-to-be-remembered consistorial event.

This pictorial section of next Sunday's AMERICAN will be a most valuable souvenir.

P. S.—The only pictures taken at the Vatican during the consistory were arranged for in advance by the Boston AMERICAN, which has the exclusive right to the use of these pictures in New England. At the request of Cardinal O'Connell, who was appealed to by other Boston newspapers, the AMERICAN consented to permit the use of a single picture of the cardinal in other Boston papers. This picture was printed in two other papers last Tuesday.

With this exception, which was made at the request of Cardinal O'Connell, the only pictures of the consistory to be printed in New England are those to appear in the AMERICAN.

Dinkelspiel on Tipping

By GEORGE V. HOBART

UND I set to Spiegel: "Annuder ding in dis tipping business vich has now got its clutches on der throat of der American public. Vy, Max, such is der case to-day dot before a t'oughtful man goes through der merry go-round doors of a svell hotel he has to leave his pocketbook on der sidevalk if he dosn't vish to lose it."

"Sure!" set Spiegel.

Und I set to Spiegel: "You know on der udder side of der vater if der hotel employes does you a leedle favor, vich he is paid for anyvay, und you gif him tuppence or a prennig he vill smile back at you und be much obliged for five minutes. But in dis country, if you hit anybody mit a cubble of pennies der chances is dot you vill vake up in der hospital und find a kindhearted but not very pictatorial nurse leaning ofer der bedside und vispering, 'Keep callum, now, please; keep cool and callum! Der doctor says you vill recofer efferyding but your vatch if he can find a small piece of der medulla obligate vich was removed from der northeastern part of your head ven der bell-boy sonked you mit der ice pitcher.' You know, Max, it takes a brave man to have his money dese days, ain't it?"

"Sure!" set Spiegel.

Und I set to Spiegel: "Dosn't misunderstood me, Max, because in der heart it pleasures me muchly to reward done dot do me a service, but not I dosn't life is ven der servicer engagents to be rewarded mit sigs dollars ven der service ain't vorth ten cents. Lately I vent mit myself by a fashionable hotel in annuder city, und ven I arrived dere it vas der lunch hour, und hunger vanted to gnaw at my victuals. I vent by der dining room und at der door a young lady mit nice features and long arms took a grab at my hat, looked inside to see vas it exgspensive, und placed it outd of my reach, all der time mit a sveet eggpression on der chin, vich seemed to say: 'You can bat it back, but it will cost you!' Den der headvaiter stepped ouid from behind der rare-vorn rubber-plant und broke his face in four sections mit a smile of velcome. Dot smile of velcome meant dot I should slip him two dollars or he vould slip me a seat by der vindow vare der pneumenia cherms could play like kittens at my feet, und I could look ouid at der pitiless sign of der undertaker's across der street. Vell, Max, I slipped him der two because I had to be dare a cubble of days, und life still has possibilities. Den he sent a vaiter ofer to me vich on some previous visit to dis earth must haf been a prince, der Spanish Mauge. He hat a chin vich was divided against itself und a forehead vich vas retreating on der fourth speed. Vun leedle look at him und I knew he vould nefer let me leave his presence mitouid gifing up fifty cents as a guarantee of good faith. So mit him, Max, und der head-vaiter, und ten cents to der lady vich held my hat for a ransom, dare I vas set back two dollars und sigsty cents before I could even introduce my appetite to der bill of fare. Dare ain't no stomach living vich can support a hunger dot costs ofer three dollars an nour, so I hat to search der bill of fare for someding vich could make up der difference between der deficit und der liabilities.
